Southerners Going Strong In Talkathon

Mansfield Sets Special Session Of Senate Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, seeking to wear down Southerners talking against anti-poll tax proposals, Friday won the Senate's consent for a special Saturday session.

Mansfield called the chamber into session at 9 a.m. EST Friday and kept it in operation until 7:35 p.m. Saturday will be the ninth day of the talkfest.

UNUSUAL ACTION

By unanimous consent, the Senate agreed to come back at 9 a.m. on Saturday—an unusual action at this stage of a congressional session. The Democratic leader indicated he was not too hopeful for an early vote.

Some Republicans were calling the talkfest a filibuster. But Mansfield said he had no intention at present of trying for the two-thirds cloture vote necessary to end the debate and put the issue to a vote.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., opened speechmaking with a three-hour, 13-minute defense of the poll tax as it is applied in his state. "A lot of people pay that dollar with pride as a small token

U.S. Refuses China Grain Embargo Lift

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States refused Friday to lift International Trading Corp. Seattle, Wash., ship $400 million worth of wheat and barley to mainland China and North Korea, both Communist countries.

The government took the position that there should be no exception to its embargo on trade with China and North Korea because neither country requested one. President Kennedy personally approved the U.S. refusal.

ASKED BY FIRM

The Seattle firm asked the Commerce Department in January for permission to export the wheat and barley. It proposed sending 750,000 tons of barley and 750,000 tons of wheat a year for three years to North Korea and one million tons of each a year for three years to Communist China.

Mindful of the U.S. embargo, the company asked for an exception on humanitarian grounds. It was understood to have reminded the department that Communist China had suffered severe food shortages and is threatened with widespread famine.

There have been proposals from various sources that the United States lift its Red China embargo enough to permit certain food shipments—either for humanitarian reasons or to take advantage of the fact that China cannot feed its millions.

President Kennedy has given no indication of any such change. He has taken the position that there is no point in discussing such a step in the absence of a direct appeal from the Red Chinese, an unlikely possibility.

In turning down the application of the Seattle firm, Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges said only: "There was no evidence that the order held by International Trading Corp. was based upon a request from the government concerned." President Kennedy made a similar statement when asked at a March 14 news conference about the export application.

International Trading Corp. told the Commerce Department its purchase order was from a Hong Kong firm. Department officials said they did not know whether the Hong Kong firm had acted as an agent for Red China and North Korea.

U.S. Tightens Cuba Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will put into effect Saturday an embargo on imports from other countries of products manufactured in whole or in part in Cuba.

Sens. Spessard L. Holland and George Smathers, Florida Democrats, said they were informed by the Treasury of this decision. The Customs Bureau, which deals with imports, is under the Treasury.

The ruling will amend the embargo announced some weeks ago on imports from Cuba. Considerable imports of Cuban products have been coming into this country from third countries and this ruling has been made to close this loophole.

TAMMY HAUGEN, 15 months, didn't like it at all when she was "captured" by her brothers, twins Ricky and Rusty, 4, in their St. Paul, Minn., home. The twins got a pair of their father's handcuffs and locked Tammy's ankles in them. Tammy screamed and her mother called police because her policeman-husband, Richard Haugen, was on duty and had the handcuff keys. Other officers responded and freed Tammy. (AP Wirephoto)

JFK Says Tide Turning On Reds

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—President Kennedy told the largest face-to-face audience of his career Friday that the great currents of history are carrying the world away from communism and toward national independence and freedom.

He called for American "innovation and daring" to meet world problems and predicted that with greater knowledge mankind "will irresistibly burst the bonds of communism and communist ideology." He pictured world communism as suffering from acute internal difficulties.

The Chief Executive spoke in the packed football stadium of University of California which was celebrating its 94th annual Charter Day.

University officials estimated the crowd at 80,000. The stadium seats were filled and thousands of persons jammed the playing field.

Kennedy hailed the prospect of Soviet-American cooperation in space as a development that could benefit peoples of all nations and lead to collaboration in other areas of learning.

"It offers us an area," he said, "in which the state, sterile dogmas of the cold war can be left literally a quarter of a million miles behind."

He warned however that the plan only Thursday. This followed an appeal by labor union leaders in a White House visit March 12.

Officials emphasized that the proposal for an immediate public works program does not represent official fears of a new recession but rather is an effort to provide work for some of the unemployed, officially counted at 4,543,000 in mid-February. Many of these have been idle for long periods.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, is scheduled to testify Monday before the House Public Works Committee on Kennedy's standby public works plan.

The forecast shows partly cloudy today and tonight with a chance of showers. The high temperature is expected to reach 70 degrees and the low is expected to fall to 50 tonight.

Skies showed mostly cloudy Friday as the high temperature was recorded at 70 degrees and the low fell to 40 degrees.

U.S. Solons Reveal Loss On Stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators pulled some of the secrecy cloaks from the nation's bulging defense stockpiles Friday and showed a loss of nearly $1 billion on some $8.96 billion invested.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of a special investigating subcommittee, shied away from a newsman's question about "scandal or impropriety" until more facts were on the record.

CITES PROFITS

"I do know that some tin producers have made profits of 700 to 1,000 per cent on costs," Symington told a news conference. Two other senators and his investigators were present.

Picked by President Kennedy to steer the special Senate inquiry, Symington released a mass of charts and data on 12 of the 74 metals and materials that have been classified as military secrets.

These showed the supplies of all 12 exceed the established maximum goals and Symington said the same was true of all but three of 64 other stockpile items.

Symington said these 12 metals and materials had cost just over $6 billion and so represented about three-fourths of the stockpile total. He said the surpluses on the 12 represented an outlay of $2.77 billion.

The chairman said he expected Kennedy would remove secrecy labels on most of the other stockpile items next week. He said he also had urged full publicity on all past stockpile contracts and officials handling them.

The stockpiles were started after World War II developed critical shortages in rubber, copper, aluminum and a long list of miscellaneous items such as feathers, castor oil, mercury and industrial diamonds.

Initial goals were for a five-year emergency, but in 1958 this was reduced to a three-year supply.

Symington refused to speculate as to why such bloated stocks are now in government hands, saying that is what the six-member Armed Services subcommittee wants to find out.

But he said the secrecy tags are no longer needed—except for three minor items still short of goals. He said "such a policy no longer serves any useful purpose, and only tends to create suspicion when none should exist."

Top dignitaries expected for the conference include Gov. Jimmy Davis, Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, State Adjutant General, and Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, State Adjutant General.

MAY SOLVE CRISIS

New Argentina Cabinet Formed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—President Arturo Frondizi announced Friday night that he has formed a new cabinet.

The president's announcement followed disclosure that ex-President Pedro Aramburu, one of the nation's most respected statesmen, had pledged to cooperate with Frondizi in solving the political crisis sparked by last Sunday's election victories by followers of ousted dictator Juan D. Peron.

In Mexico City, Argentine Ambassador Gen. Julian Garcia said the new cabinet was comprised of political independents. None of the new ministers are from the ranks of the established political parties, he said.

Frondizi's announcement ended, at least for the moment, the political crisis that has rocked Argentina in the past five days.

The successful formation of a new government represented perhaps Frondizi's greatest political victory in his trouble ridden four years in office.

Aramburu's pledge of support was credited with having played an important role in the formation of the new cabinet. The army was reported to have given Frondizi until next Monday to form a coalition government, or resign.

Aramburu said he had accepted Frondizi's appeal to aid in solving the political crisis but added that Frondizi had given

New Type Airliner In Planning Stage

LONDON (AP)—Britain and France will start talks Monday aimed at producing a jointly built supersonic airliner capable of carrying 120 passengers from London to New York in three hours, the Ministry of Aviation announced Friday.

The talks will take place at the Aviation Ministry here between government teams of experts led by British Aviation Minister Peter Thorneycroft and his French opposite number, Robert Buron.

If the first exploratory stage of the project is successful the two nations will spend more than 100 million pounds—$280 million—to produce a prototype. And if that goes well, the world's first supersonic passenger jet will fly across the North Atlantic in 1970.

Speed of the airliner has been calculated at Mach 2.2—one

Insurrection Approaches All Out War

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—French troops with armored cars and halftracks battled through Friday night against European Secret Army Organization terrorists in downtown Algiers. The roaring night battles followed a day that saw French planes and heavy weapons in widespread action.

While exploding plastic bombs mingled with the sound of machine gun fire early Saturday, other French forces threw a ring of steel around the European workers' suburb of Bab-el-Oued.

TANKS BOMBED
A convoy of halftracks rumbling up Rue Michelet in central Algiers ran into a hail of homemade gasoline incendiary bombs thrown from apartment balconies overlooking the street.

The fighting became increasingly fierce during the night. French officials said 15 soldiers were killed and 50 wounded in five hours of street clashes. Secret army casualties were not disclosed but one hospital reported receiving the bodies of three Europeans and said it was treating 40 Europeans for wounds.

Gendarmes manning heavy-caliber machine guns sprayed building fronts on Rue Michelet with bullets.

Nearby, on the Rue Sadi Carnot, a plastic bomb shook a French tank posted at an intersection. The tank replied with all its guns blazing at a nearby building where secret army snipers were harassing French troops.

A convoy of seven tanks armed with recoilless 75mm cannon moved into the area.

Muslims Sentence Confirmed

Judge Jesse S. Heard found seven Negro Muslims guilty of charges ranging from disturbing the peace to aggravated battery on police officers, at the Muslim appeal trial in Fourth District Court Friday.

He will sentence them on March 30.

Judge Heard said it was "impossible to reconcile the testimony in this case" since the statements of witnesses for the city and for the defense were "exactly opposite."

"I am impressed with some of the defense witnesses" who were at the scene of the battle, 1243 DeSard St., but who said they failed to see the fracas, the Judge remarked.

"It is inconceivable to me that the heads of a police department the size of Monroe's would come into court and concoct a story like this," he continued.

Six police officers, including Chief James C. Kelly Jr., testified that the Negroes attacked them with sticks, chairs, stools, crates and a letter opener.

The Muslims, who advocate Black Supremacy over all whites, maintained that they were "in prayer" at the Temple of Islam and that they did not attack the police.

On trial were: Troy B. Cade, 21, 3012 Bailey St., local Muslim leader and "teacher"; his wife, Luretha Cade, 23; Robert Douglas, 22, 3614 Church St.; Reacy Gaines, 34, 3310 Church St.; T. L. Lawson, 22, 3306 Church St.

JFK Expected
To Ask Public
Works Start

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to ask Congress Monday to provide an immediate public works program for areas experiencing persistent unemployment.

Reliable sources said the plan will call for a federal outlay of $400 to $500 million. The program's total cost might be double that amount, since states would be called on to match most if not all the federal grants.

Projects would be limited to those that could be started quickly and completed in a year, the object being to provide work for long-term unemployed workers.

The President is reported to have given his approval to the plan only Thursday. This followed an appeal by labor union leaders in a White House visit March 12.

Officials emphasized that the proposal for an immediate public works program does not represent official fears of a new recession but rather is an effort to provide work for some of the unemployed, officially counted at 4,543,000 in mid-February. Many of these have been idle for long periods.

In Planning Stage

LONDON (AP) — Britain and France will start talks Monday aimed at producing a jointly built supersonic airliner capable of carrying 120 passengers from London to New York in three hours, the Ministry of Aviation announced Friday.

The talks will take place at the Aviation Ministry here between government teams of experts led by British Aviation Minister Peter Thorneycroft and his French opposite number, Robert Buron.

If the first exploratory stage of the project is successful the two nations will spend more than 100 million pounds—$280 million — to produce a prototype. And if that goes well, the world's first supersonic passengers will fly across the North Atlantic in 1970.

Speed of the airliner has been calculated at Mach 2.2 — one

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French troops with armored cars and halftracks battled through Friday night against European Secret Army Organization terrorists in downtown Algiers. The roaring night battles followed a day that saw French planes and heavy weapons in widespread action.

While exploding plastic bombs mingled with the sound of machine gun fire early Saturday, other French forces threw a ring of steel around the European workers' suburb of Bab-el-Oued.

TANKS BOMBED

A convoy of halftracks rumbling up Rue Michelet in central Algiers ran into a hail of homemade gasoline incendiary bombs thrown from apartment balconies overlooking the street.

The fighting became increasingly fierce during the night.

French officials said 15 soldiers were killed and 50 wounded in five hours of street clashes. Secret army casualties were not disclosed but one hospital reported receiving the bodies of three Europeans and said it was treating 40 Europeans for wounds.

Gendarmes manning heavy-caliber machine guns sprayed building fronts on Rue Michelet with bullets.

Nearby, on the Rue Sadi Carnot, a plastic bomb shook a French tank posted at an intersection. The tank replied with all its guns blazing at a nearby building where secret army snipers were harassing French troops.

A convoy of seven tanks armed with recoilless 75mm cannon moved into the area.

The tanks took positions in streets littered with shattered

Muslims
Sentence
Confirmed

Judge Jesse S. Heard found seven Negro Muslims guilty of charges ranging from disturbing the peace to aggravated battery on police officers, at the Muslim's appeal trial in Fourth District Court Friday.

He will sentence them on March 30.

Judge Heard said it was "impossible to reconcile the testimony in this case" since the statements of witnesses for the city and for the defense were "exactly opposite."

"I am impressed with some of the defense witnesses" who were at the scene of the battle, 1243 DeSiard St., but who said they failed to see the fracas, the Judge remarked.

"It is inconceivable to me that the heads of a police department the size of Monroe's would come into court and concoct a story like this," he continued.

Six police officers, including Chief James C. Kelly Jr., testified that the Negroes attacked them with sticks, chairs, stools, crates and a letter opener.

The Muslims, who advocate Black Supremacy over all whites, maintained that they were "in prayer" at the Temple of Islam and that they did not attack the police.

On trial were: Troy B. Cade, 21, 3012 Bailey St., local Muslim leader and "teacher"; his wife, Luretha Cade, 23; Robert Douglas, 22, 3614 Church St.; Reacy Gaines, 34, 3310 Church St.; T. L. Lawson, 22, 3306 Church

DEFENSE RESTS CASE

Court Is Asked To Grant Mercy

JERUSALEM (AP) — The defense rested its case to save Adolf Eichmann from his death sentence Friday with a plea to Israel's highest court to hear new witnesses and to grant mercy.

The court will rule on the defense request to introduce new witnesses in the 11-month-old Eichmann court proceedings at the conclusion of Hausner's arguments.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner, Eichmann's defense counsel, then launched the prosecution's Dr. Robert Servatius of Cologne, case against clemency for the former Gestapo officer convicted of major complicity in the extermination of six million Jews during the Nazi era.

Among witnesses Servatius seeks to summon are Dr. Hans Globke, state secretary in the Cabinet of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Servatius contends Globke could back up Eichmann's defense that as an SS officer he was bound to obey the laws of Nazi Germany.

The essence of Servatius' appeal was that Eichmann was not the "gray eminence" behind the liquidation of Jews, but a police officer in the security forces bound by oath to carry out the orders of superiors.

"Only the state can be responsible for its organizations and its subordinates," Servatius argued.

"For the accused to have disobeyed orders of the state would have meant that he would have been put to death."

In his rebuttal, Hausner declared: "We do not say that Eichmann carried out the heinous work of extermination alone. There were legions working with him. But should we acquit him just because there were others doing the same thing? He is an international criminal and genocide is a heinous crime which must be punished, like piracy, wherever it is found."

SUPREME SOVIET CONVENES MOSCOW (UPI)—The new Supreme Soviet (parliament) will be convened April 10, Moscow radio reported Friday.

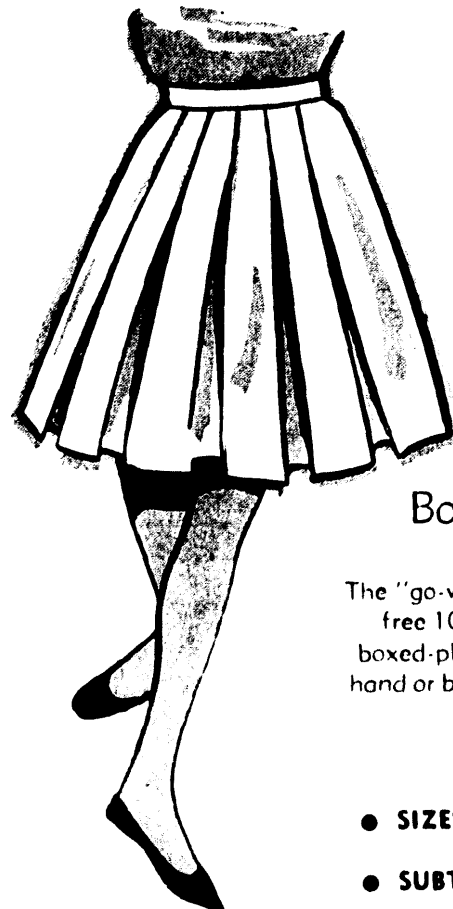

The broadcast said this followed a decree by the Supreme Soviet's Presidium signed by its chairman, Leonid Brezhnev, and its secretary, Mikhail Gorbachev.

The meeting will be a routine one following the election of a new 1,429-seat parliament last Sunday.

INVITES CONGRESSMEN WASHINGTON (UPI)—United Auto Workers Union President Walter P. Reuther Friday invited all 537 members of the House and Senate to have dinner with him April 3.

Reuther, acting in his capacity as president of the AFL-CIO industrial union department, called the dinner a get-together of congressmen and labor leaders.

Solon Charges U.S. Favoritism To JFK Friend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.) said Friday the government operated General Aniline and Film Corp., switched its lucrative advertising account to a firm employing a close personal friend of President Kennedy.

Curtis charged that "political maneuverings" were involved. He identified the friend as K. LeMayne Billings, vice president of Lennen and Newell, a New York advertising firm. Billings and Kennedy have been friends since they were classmates at the Choate School in Wallingford, Conn.

Also securing business under the Kennedy administration's operation of the $170 million film and dye company, Curtis said, was the accounting firm with which Carime Bellino, former accountant for Senate investigators, is now associated. Bellino worked closely with Attorney General Robert Kennedy when the President's brother was counsel for the Senate racketeering committee.

Tour Group Hold Meet In West Monroe

Lovely Louisiana Tourist Association, Alexandria, representatives held a hour long clinic for the West Monroe police department Friday afternoon to kick-off a tourist campaign for the city.

West Monroe Mayor J. A. Norris stated that this was the first of a campaign to bring the tourist dollar to West Monroe.

The clinic, the first for a municipal police force, was held in West Monroe at the request of Norris and J. W. Caldwell, West Monroe chief of police.

Representatives from the association who held the clinic were: State Sen. Sylvan Friedman, president of the association, Natchez; State Sen. J. C. "Sonny" Gilbert, director of the association, Sicily Island; Capt. E. C. Lyles, Baton Rouge state police, liaison officer between the state police and the association; and Claude Morgan, public relations director of the association and also the Louisiana Municipal Association, Alexandria.

Sen. Friedman told the group, "The purpose of this clinic is to acquaint you with the new tourist aid program which has been worked out for the city of West Monroe by the LLTA in cooperation with Mayor Norris and Chief Caldwell."

Friedman pointed out that, "If 24 tourists spend a day in Louisiana for each day of a year, it is equivalent to a $100,000 industrial plant as far as money brought into the state."

Friedman stated that this program is designed, not only to bring tourists into Louisiana from out-of-state, but to keep Louisiana residents in Louisiana for their vacation.

Sen. Gilbert told the officers that tourism is Louisiana's fourth largest industry. "In 1960, $547 million was brought into the state by tourists."

"The goal we are now reaching for, is to increase this amount to $1 billion," Gilbert stated. "And if properly publicized, it can become our largest industry."

Capt. Lyles informed the group that, "This program will prove good for you, your city, police department and administration, but you have to be a salesman for your city."

He told the officers that if they would stop tourists on the road and offer aid, they would think of Louisiana for their next vacation.

He stated, "You have the drop on them from the start because you are police officers. When they discover they are not going to get a ticket, they will be more than willing to co-operate."

By co-operate, Lyles meant that the tourist would fill in a special form given to them by the officers. These cards, containing the person's name and address, destination, length of stay in the state and other facts will be used to aid the tourist in case of some accident or reason for his being notified.

The card will also be used as a source of the tourist's name and address so that a letter can be forwarded to him thanking him for coming to Louisiana and inviting him back.

Mayor Norris announced his intention of forming a committee to promote tourism in West Monroe.

MISS PALACE SHOP • STREET FLOOR

There's an increasing pocketbook pinch in homes across the U. S. today, which accounts in part for the fact that our spending for the big-ticket durable things which spur a boom hasn't been zooming along with our cash incomes.

The squeeze is not due to a sharp rise in our cost of living. Actually, prices of most of the things we need or want have remained extraordinarily stable for a remarkably long period of time.

Rather, the squeeze is due to a sharp rise in the cost of children—and while millions of families are experiencing this and know what I'm reporting here, the meaning of the pinch to business today and in the future is only vaguely understood.

The babies born in record numbers in the years following World War II are growing into their teens now — are reaching the ages where the cost of feeding, clothing, educating, entertaining them and keeping them well reaches a peak. The tendency toward larger families which became pronounced in the late 1940s and 1950s is now having a clear financial impact on the spending habits of the parents.

The father and mother of a trio or quartet of teen-agers may have appreciated them emotionally from the start, but I'll wager countless numbers didn't fully anticipate their financial aspects.

In my dual role as a reporter on economics and mother of a girl heading toward her teens, I'm living this tale and I recognize its validity. The little girl who once needed only school clothes and a party dress or two today has special occasions for which a basically right dress or suit is a must — and basically right girl's dresses or suits aren't cheap.

The finicky eater of a few years ago today is beginning to consume astounding totals of food, milk and soft drinks, and when she has guests — and all 12-year-olds visit around — the influence on our food budget shows up immediately. The child who needed only a minor camp wardrobe at the age of 10 is now going to a summer camp with a list of "required," "necessary" and "suggested" articles covering two pages. Her school expenses are climbing fast and we're not near the really expensive years. Add desirable extra — curricular activities, personal care, payments to the orthodontist . . .

And the telephone. The word deserves a paragraph by itself.

The pattern of Cris is the pattern of pre-teens and teen-agers the nation over — and seeing what just one can do to our pocketbook, I know what is happening to the pocketbooks of parents of three or four.

This explains why so many families complain about a cost of living pinch at a time when prices are so stable. The fact is that over all prices have risen less than 1 per cent over the past year, which is practically no move at all. The fact is that in this period prices of many important products have declined.

But the fact also is that prices of non-things — the services devoured by growing children — have been rising relentlessly.

At the same time, adults as well as children are using more and more of the services. About 40 per cent of all we spend as consumers goes for services today, against less than one-third at the end of World War II. Through recessions and recoveries, we have been hiking our spending for services at a faster rate than our incomes have climbed. What's more, the big bulge in education expenses still lies ahead.

We are in the early stages of this squeeze. Between now and 1965, the total in the 14-17 year age group will jump over 25 per cent and in the 18-21 year age group, almost 27 per cent — by far the biggest percentage increases of any age category in our country.

The violent shift in our population mix which is approaching will have profound effects on demands for goods and services.

A short while ago, I asked a friend who is a parent of four boys what he was doing these days. Said he:

"We're not doing anything much. We're busy growing."

In a colorful way, he capsulized and telegraphed the pocketbook pinch of the first half of the 1960s.

HEW Vacancy In Cabinet

Ribicoff To Remain In At Least Three More Months But Scramble For His Position Has Already Begun

HEW Secretary Ribicoff is continuing in the Cabinet for at least three more months before running for the Senate, but already the undercurrent scramble for his job is at fever pitch.

Surprisingly, the front-running possibility at this stage is Veterans Administrator John Gleason.

Chief reason for that is the high-powered bipartisan backing vigorously going to bat for the 47-year-old former Chicago banker and American Legion National Commander — Mayor Richard Daley, Senator Paul Douglas, veteran Democratic National Committee member Jacob Arvey, and Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen.

Another surprise leading aspirant is Senator Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

Friends of Muskie attribute his wanting the HEW post to a feeling of "frustration" in the Senate. This is his fourth year there; his term expires in 1964.

Representative John Fogarty, D-R.I., able chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the HEW budget, is also in this backstage picture — but not because of his doing. Influential friends are actively urging his appointment.

Fogarty says he will take the Cabinet place if offered, but won't lift a finger to get it.

Mayor Daley and Senator Douglas have personally talked twice to the President about naming Gleason. The President expressed highest regard for him and promised to give him "fullest consideration."

But that is as far as he has gone. No commitment beyond that was made.

Daley and Arvey carry much political weight with the President. The huge majority their Cook County organization piled up for him in 1960 swung Illinois into his column and thus ensured his paper-thin election.

Gleason, appointed Veterans Administrator soon after the President took office, has performed efficiently and quietly. He has gone out of his way to keep out of the limelight. He is well regarded by leaders of both parties in Congress. An Army veteran of World War II, he studied at Notre Dame, Harvard and the University of Wisconsin. He is married and has six sons.

HAPPY DAYS — U. S. servicemen in Europe can start preparing to welcome their families soon.

Defense Secretary McNamara will shortly lift his ban on service families going there. He imposed it last September to stem the disquieting loss of U. S. gold reserves. His crackdown has been under fire ever since.

American troop commanders repeatedly have complained it adversely affected morale. More than 100 members of Congress have strongly urged canceling the ban.

McNamara has finally decided to do that, and will soon announce it.

His assistants emphatically deny this year's highly uncertain elections have anything to do with this decision.

POLITICALS — Herbert Hoover is running for the Senate — and as a Democrat at that. Not the one-time Republican President. This Hoover is Herbert J., 34, of Rockville, Md., who has thrown his hat into the ring for the Democratic senatorial nomination against three other candidates. A missile-systems engineer, young Hoover admits his prospects are dim, but says he is running because he feels strongly it is urgent to "return common sense to our foreign and domestic policies. They seem to have a negative motivation. I think I am more of a conservative than my rivals." . . . Pappy Boyington, famed world war Marine ace and Medal of Honor winner, has his eye on a congressional seat — as a Democrat. He is after one of California's eight new congressional offices, and national Democratic leaders are heartily encouraging him. Boyington, whose first name was Gregory, legally changed it to Pappy to boost his election chances.

President Kennedy is turning out to be the National Committee's most productive fund raiser. Every party rally he has addressed this year has netted the committee at least $150,000. This money is being divided three ways — to pay off the remainder of the 1960 campaign debt, to support the committee's considerably expanded staff and expenditures, and $10,000 a month each to the Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees . . . Former Representative R. and I. (Front Porch) Harmon, D-Ind., who made headlines during his 1959-60 term by renting his front porch to the government for his home — town office, has decided not to try a comeback. Instead, he is settling for postmaster of Munice, Ind. — if he can get it. Harmon has made this ambition known to Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of his party's campaign committee, and other Democratic leaders. So far, Harmon still hasn't landed this prize.

The American Medical Association is taking a leaf from organized labor and getting into politics. Like the unions, the AMA has organized a special political unit — the American Medical Political Action Committee. AMPAC has a threefold purpose: To "stimulate" physicians to engage in politics; to "encourage them to understand the nature and actions of their government" and to assist them in organizing; "for more effective political action" . . . The AFL-CIO is planning to spend more than $750,000 to boost voter registration in carefully selected congressional districts. This is being done on the basis of a study of similar expenditures in 1960 which markedly increased voting in these areas, presumably for labor-backed candidates.

A man or woman with chronic bronchitis is smoking two or three packs a day, and wondering why the cough medicine is no more effective than water.

A doctor gets a report from the laboratory and the findings are positive for cancer. Now comes one of the debilitating moments of his day: telling the patient or the family.

A little boy is informed of his appointment to see the doctor. He kicks and screams: "I won't go! I won't go." Minutes later he is in the family car. Some form of parental persuasion has done the trick.

Another office nurse is selfless and kind. The patients say: "Isn't she a dear?"

A man is carelessly plucking a hair from his nostril, not realizing he is playing Russian roulette. If streptococci or staphylococci make the grand entrance, he may soon be fighting for his life against a septicemia (blood infection).

A doctor will be asking a patient whom he examined the preceding year: "How old are you?" The patient will give her (or his) age. The doctor's face will be impressive as he looks at the patient's chart and finds that the patient is two years younger than a year ago.

A patient will bustle in a half-hour late for an appointment and say, "Sorry, I had a flat." Also had a flat tire at the time of previous appointment.

A doctor will say, "Smoking is bad for you!" as he takes a deep drag himself.

A normally genial doctor will be irritable one day because of family trouble or because he is having a bad toothache (or something worse). Some patients will never forgive him because he is "not his usual pleasant self."

An unimaginative doctor will be using the old bromide as he gets ready to jab a long needle into the patient. "This hurts me more than it does you."

Somewhere a doctor will be charging a grateful old patient only one or two dollars for an office visit (which includes a physical, electrocardiogram, X ray, etc.) Unshakable loyalty through the years is an uncommon patient-commodity.

Hundreds of thousands of patients will be riding the medical merry-go-round — trying one doctor after another — needlessly spending money and time, and perhaps endangering their health.

A businessman will be telling a tired, sleepless doctor: "I wouldn't be a doctor for anything. I don't see how you can keep going like you do."

Today is Saturday, March 24, the 83rd day of the year with 282 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1603, the crowns of England and Scotland were joined under James VI of Scotland who began the new reign as James I.

In 1882, Prof. Robert Koch announced in Berlin his discovery of tuberculosis germs.

In 1934, the United States granted the Philippine Islands independence, effective July 4, 1946.

In 1953, the dowager Queen Mary, 86-year-old grandmother of Queen Elizabeth II, died in London.

A thought for the day: The Athenian orator Demosthenes said: "To remind the man of the good turns you have done him is very much like a reproach."

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Present demands for a shorter work week at the same rate of pay are, I suppose, partially the result of an attempt to meet the threat of automation. In a larger and more meaningful sense, it seems to me, this is an expression for distaste for work.

The recent contract signed by the electrical workers in New York City is, I suggest, an expression of what has become a commonly accepted belief — that is, work is something no one wants to do and therefore the fewer hours per week a man works the happier he will be.

In my opinion this is a complete denial of the fundamental nature of man which requires personal accomplishment if satisfaction is to be achieved.

The happy, well-adjusted men of my acquaintance are those who find joy in their labor, take pride in their accomplishments and pay no attention to the time clock on the wall.

It is sometimes frightening to consider that in the Communist-dominated areas of the world men and women are working 12 and 14 hours a day, frequently seven days a week, while in the so-called free areas of the world, there is a considered effort to avoid work wherever possible.

A recent filmed commentary on the progress of communism in Red China emphasizes the fact that all citizens of China, men, women and children, labor without rest or interruption.

In the Western world we have learned to employ the power of machinery to supplant human effort. But if we carry this to the ultimate conclusion, we will inevitably deprive man of an opportunity to achieve advancement through personal effort. In that notable book, "The Prophet," Kahlil Gibran says: "Work is love made visible."

"And if you cannot work with love, only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work and sit at the gate of the temple and take alms of those who work with joy."

"For if you bake bread with indifference, you bake a bitter bread that feeds half man's hunger."

"And if you grudge the crushing of the grapes, your grudge distills a poison in the wine."

"And if you sing though as angels and love not the singing, you muffle man's ears to the voices of the day and the voices of the night."

'Unthinkable' Strikes

Victor Riesel, who writes a daily column on labor-management problems and whose eyes were seriously damaged in an enemy attack a good many years ago, sees some likelihood of strikes among aircraft and missile workers despite the fact that they have been labeled by such labor friends as President Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Goldberg as "unthinkable." Riesel looks for possible strikes because of the rapid shifting over of implements of war and the probability that manned bombers soon will become antiquated and won't be used.

After visiting Offutt Air Force base, Riesel wrote:

" . . . In front of me was the lone button which could unleash thermobaric nuclear bombings by manned aircraft across the world. The thing was disconnected for the moment, I am sure. Slowly it appears that some day it will become a museum piece—along with manned war craft."

"I know not what will happen to the B-70. I do know what is happening to its first cousin, the B-52. We're still making some over in Wichita. But they'll pass out completely by July."

"What will happen to the jobs, the bread and butter, the purchasing power of the men who forge these million-dollar flying forts? . . .

"The man who man the missile bases are under union contract—and they want to know what will happen to them. They have heard the news of 9,000 about to be laid off at Republic Aviation in Long Island, N.Y."

"The president's special labor-management committee has just about completed its report on collective bargaining."

"What's President Kennedy going to do. He and Goldberg do not plan to back away from their insistence that 'strikes are unthinkable.'"

" . . . Remember, it has been said, 'This is still a free country.' In the end it could still mean a strike."

The thought that must come home hard to all of us is that our federal government has a terrific task in trying to handle the matters in which it is directly concerned. If it can handle those things well it should be satisfied instead of trying to horn in on such things as government-controlled education, socialized medicine and other activities aimed at setting up socialism.

New 'Foodless Food'

A new kind of food substitute reminds us of the tale of the farmer who fed his horse sawdust, but since more than 1,000 food manufacturers are currently testing the new product it either has some merit or is doing its part in proving that you can fool some of the people all the time.

Several weeks after the farmer started feeding his horse sawdust, one of his neighbors one day asked him how the horse was getting along on that diet. The farmer replied, "Well, he was doing fine but just about the time he got to eating nothing but sawdust, he died."

We don't expect anything like that to happen as a result of the new product, because it will be eaten along with food, but consider some of the negative claims made for Avicel, which is its trade name:

The developers say Avicel is a non-nutritive, non-fibrous, non-caloric and non-digestible material consisting of microcrystalline cellulose. If it is non-all-of-these-things, what does it do? Here are some of the claims: It is a satisfactory substitute for flour or gelatin. It is a stabilizer for whipped cream and other aerosol foods. It is a powerful, adaptable carrier for flavorings of all kinds, despite its own natural tasteless state. Developers say that as much as one-third of the flour in a cake can be superseded by Avicel, that it will successfully pinch-hit for gelatin in cake icings, Hollandaise sauce, butter, mayonnaise, ice cream and candy and will cut calories in all of these by the gross.

If people can eat all they want, if it tastes like real food, if it satisfies them and they don't feel any hungrier than if they had eaten real food, it will seem like the equivalent of eating your cake and not eating it too. Boy! Will that be the day!

Anthropologist Edward Weyer calls the Arunta tribesmen of central Australia "as perfect an example of a Stone Age people as we have."

In Italy the industrial force is concentrated in the Milan-Genoa-Turin triangle.

Since the United States laid the groundwork for the Organization of American States and the Alliance for Progress, developments in Latin America call for a new appraisal.

Especially large question marks loom in Brazil and Argentina, the two largest nations in South America.

Followers of exiled dictator Juan Peron upset the position of President Arturo Frondizi in recent elections in Argentina. And a man little known in North America has begun a systematic seizure of United States property in Brazil.

The latter is Leonel Brizola, brother of Brazil's leftist President Joao Goulart. As governor of Brazil's southernmost province, Rio Grande do Sul, he has grabbed the $7 million telephone system owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Co. In view of efforts to encourage investment by United States firms as part of the Alliance for Progress, the seizure was a slap in the face for Uncle Sam.

As for the situation in Argentina, President Frondizi, considered pro-American, did not even want to take a half-hearted stand against Cuba until his military department exerted pressure on him.

Now, with the Peronists gaining ground, it is wonderd if Argentina will not move more closely to Castro. It will be recalled Peron remained as neutral as possible during World War II, then made his loyalties known afterwards as pro-Red through his wife, Eva.

Brazil and Argentina, like most other countries, are fond of United States money. As a matter of fact, Brazil's President Goulart is coming to Washington next month to seek additional funds.

But many persons are questioning if the money will in fact be used for western cooperation. The likelihood appears that Red-centered factions are hoping to get their hands on the cash and that any progress would be to fatten the bank accounts of the old-line Latin rulers or to push Brazil and Argentina toward the communist camp.

It would be foolish indeed to forget or overlook Brizola's action cited above and the fact that Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Castro's Soviet economist, is a native of Argentina.

If the future of any such alliance is to be marked with seizures of United States property, we had best try other tactics to preserve the solidarity of the western hemisphere. It may require more than money to preserve the principles of the Monroe Doctrine.

HEW Vacancy In Cabinet

Ribicoff To Remain In At Least Three More Months But Scramble For His Position Has Already Begun

HEW Secretary Ribicoff is continuing in the Cabinet for at least three more months before running for the Senate, but already the undercover scramble for his job is at fever pitch.

Surprisingly, the front-running possibility at this stage is Veterans Administrator John Gleason.

Chief reason for that is the high-powered bipartisan backing vigorously going to bat for the 47-year-old former Chicago banker and American Legion National Commander — Mayor Richard Daley, Senator Paul Douglas, veteran Democratic National Committee man Jacob Arvey, and Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen.

Another surprise leading aspirant is Senator Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

Friends of Muskie attribute his wanting the HEW post to a feeling of "frustration" in the Senate. This is his fourth year there; his term expires in 1964.

Representative John Fogarty, D-R.I., able chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the HEW budget, is also in this backstage picture — but not because of his doing. Influential friends are actively urging his appointment.

Fogarty says he will take the Cabinet place if offered, but won't lift a finger to get it.

Mayor Daley and Senator Douglas have personally talked twice to the President about naming Gleason. The President expressed highest regard for him and promised to give him "fullest consideration."

But that is as far as he has gone. No commitment beyond that was made.

Daley and Arvey carry much political weight with the President. The huge majority their Cook County organization piled up for him in 1960 swung Illinois into his column and thus ensured his paper-thin election.

Gleason, appointed Veterans Administrator soon after the President took office, has performed efficiently and quietly. He has gone out of his way to keep out of the limelight. He is well regarded by leaders of both parties in Congress. An Army veteran of World War II, he studied at Notre Dame, Harvard and the University of Wisconsin. He is married and has six sons.

HAPPY DAYS — U. S. servicemen in Europe can start preparing to welcome their families soon.

Defense Secretary McNamara will shortly lift his ban on service families going there. He imposed it last September to stem the disquieting loss of U. S. gold reserves. His crackdown has been under fire ever since.

American troop commanders repeatedly have complained it adversely affected morale. More than 100 members of Congress have strongly urged canceling the ban.

McNamara has finally decided to do that, and will soon announce it.

His assistants emphatically deny this year's highly uncertain elections have anything to do with this decision.

POLITICALS — Herbert Hoover is running for the Senate — and as a Democrat at that. Not the one-time Republican President.

Herbert J. 34, of Rockville, Md., who has thrown his hat into the ring for the Democratic senatorial nomination against three other candidates. A missile-systems engineer, young Hoover admits his prospects are dim, but says he is running because he feels strongly it is urgent to "return common sense to our foreign and domestic policies. They seem to have a negative motivation. I think I am more of a conservative than my rivals." ... Pappy Boyington, famed world war Marine ace and Medal of Honor winner, has his eye on a congressional seat — as a Democrat. He is after one of California's eight new congressional offices, and national Democratic leaders are heartily encouraging him. Boyington, whose first name was Gregory, legally changed it to Pappy to boost his election chances.

President Kennedy is turning out to be the National Committee's most productive fund raiser. Every party rally he has addressed this year has netted the committee at least $150,000. This money is being divided three ways — to pay off the remainder of the 1960 campaign debt, to support the committee's considerably expanded staff and expenditures, and $10,000 a month each to the Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees.

Former Representative Randall (Front Porch) Harmon, D-Ind., who made headlines during his 1959-60 term by renting his front porch to the government for his home — town office, has decided not to try a comeback. Instead, he is settling for postmaster of Munice, Ind. — if he can get it. Harmon has made this ambition known to Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of his party's campaign committee, and other Democratic leaders. So far, Harmon still hasn't landed this prize.

The American Medical Association is taking a leaf from organized labor and getting into politics. Like the unionites, the AMA has organized a special political unit — the American Medical Political Action Committee, AMPAC. It has a threefold purpose: To "stimulate" physicians to engage in politics; to "encourage them to understand the nature and actions of their government"; and to assist them in organizing "for more effective political action" ... The AFL-CIO is planning to spend more than $750,000 to boost voter registration in carefully selected congressional districts. This is being done on the basis of a study of similar expenditures in 1960 which markedly increased voting in these areas, presumably for labor-backed candidates.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 3-24

Flood Control Hearings Stated Here April 19

The U. S. Corps of Engineers will hold a public hearing on flood control projects in Monroe April 19, Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer, of Vicksburg has announced.

In a notice announcing the hearing, Col. Everett said the hearing would be held to review a flood control report adopted by Congress on July 24, 1958.

He said the hearing would be conducted "with a view to determining whether changes in the recommendations contained therein are advisable at this time."

The hearing will be held at 2 p.m., April 19, at the Virginia Hotel.

$1,000 A Share Stock In Space System Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy believes that as many Americans "as can prudently do so" should have the opportunity to invest in a planned satellite communication system.

This was disclosed Friday in a letter from Dr. E. C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Space Council, to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

The administration has suggested a bottom figure of $1,000 a share in its proposal for a private, profit-making corporation to set up the American part of a global space communications system.

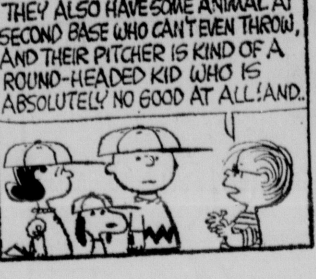

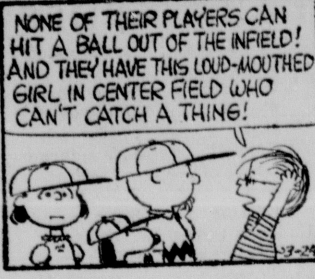

Welsh, in effect, invited Congress to reduce the price of the initial stock offering. Keating has suggested that this be done.

The $1,000 figure was chosen, Welsh said, to encourage a wide range of investors while discouraging very small investors needing a quick dividend return.

Parish, Area Libraries Get State Awards

LAFAYETTE (Special) — Libraries in Monroe, Rayville and Bastrop garnered all three 1961-62 Modisette Awards for the state, at the annual Louisiana Library Association convention here Friday.

Lakeshore Elementary schools in Monroe, represented by Mrs. Maude Gore, librarian, received the award for school libraries.

The Trustee Award went to Mrs. Robert R. Ryemes of Rayville, chairman of the Richland Parish Library. The Morehouse Parish Library of Bastrop received the Public Library Award.

Dr. Joel L. Fletcher, president of the University of Southwestern Louisiana and member of the Louisiana State Library Board, presented the awards at a special luncheon in the city auditorium here.

He pointed out that the awards are in honor of the late James Oliver Modisette, former president of the L.L.A. and for 15 years chairman of the Louisiana Library Commission, now Louisiana State Library.

Lakeshore school's award was based on the quantitative aspects of A.L.A.'s new, high standards. The Monroe school meets the standards in audio-visual materials, funds, professional training for the librarian, furniture, equipment, patterns of scheduling and organization of the library for pupils, teachers and librarians, and for service.

Dr. Fletcher commended Mrs. Gore, the school principal and the superintendent.

The Trustee Award to Mrs. Ryemes "recognizes an outstanding trustee for work done over a period of years," Dr. Fletcher said. "Selection is based on written recommendations outlining the trustee's contribution to local, state and national levels."

"The Morehouse Public Library," said Dr. Fletcher, "has the distinction of being a two-time winner of the Modisette Award for Public Libraries." Vernon Parish Library is the only other in the state to receive the award twice.

Among the latest equipment is ultra-modern incubators including an isolation incubator for premature born babies and an explosion-proof incubator for exact safety measures.

Although these facilities have not yet been used, reports say that several expectant mothers are making preparations.

For the first baby boy and the first baby girl born in the new hospital, the Jonesboro Retail Merchants Association will award a complete baby bed assembly.

Mayor L. O. Tate's address followed. He said, "This wonderful occasion which brings us together today fills a long established need for the people of our area."

Besides the modern style of the building itself, the hospital also has the latest type of equipment which is essential for the best treatment of patients.

U.S. Troops Stage Berlin Area Alert

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States Friday staged a surprise combat readiness alert of 1,500 new Berlin garrison troops, moving them swiftly up to the East Berlin border and other key defense points.

It was the second major exercise of the week and followed by one day large scale Communist troop movements along the border to a maneuver area five miles from Berlin in East German territory.

In Heidelberg, West Germany, U.S. Army headquarters announced it has lodged a strong protest to the Soviets against the action of East German police in firing on an Army car in East German police in firing on an Army car in East Germany on March 20 and detaining a U.S. officer and enlisted man.

Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, Army European commander, called in the acting chief of the Soviet Military Mission, Col. Ivan Banov, and handed him the protest Thursday. He was to take it to Soviet Marshal Ivan Koniev, commander of the Red Army in East Germany.

The mission automobile, with a U.S. Army major and an enlisted driver in it, was stopped unaccountably and improperly by Vopos (Communist People's Police) in the vicinity of Wahlwinckel, 12 miles east of Eisenach, the Army statement said. After an hour's wait and refusal to allow the occupants to see the Soviet

New Hospital Open In Jackson Parish

JONESBORO (Special) — Located between Jonesboro and Hodge, is one of Louisiana's newest and most modern hospitals, and, according to James D. Putnam, hospital director, it is now completely staffed.

The hospital employs a work force of about 25 and contains 40 beds, with 23 of these in private rooms and seven in semi-private.

Cost of the hospital was approximately $850 thousand, which was supplied jointly by an earlier bond issue passed by Jackson Parish property owners and the Federal Government under the Hill-Burton act of Congress which matched the $400 thousand passed by the people.

The Tudor Construction Co., of Alexandria constructed the building after their base bid of $709,142 was accepted by the Jackson Parish Police Jury.

Completion of the hospital was followed by an open house and dedication ceremony on March 4.

Regardless of the cold, windy weather which plagued the hospital's opening, between five and six thousand persons from throughout the state attended the ceremonies.

John J. McKeithen, Louisiana Public Service Commissioner, explained the many benefits and services that the new facility will bring to the people of the parish.

After the address by McKeithen, Sam Thomas Jr., chairman of the hospital board, introduced the other members of the board which consists of Mrs. Chet Steadman, O. M. Gresham, H. C. Womack and I. B. Peters.

Mayor L. O. Tate's address followed. He said, "This wonderful occasion which brings us together today fills a long established need for the people of our area."

Among the latest equipment is ultra-modern incubators including an isolation incubator for premature born babies and an explosion-proof incubator for exact safety measures.

Although these facilities have not yet been used, reports say that several expectant mothers are making preparations.

For the first baby boy and the first baby girl born in the new hospital, the Jonesboro Retail Merchants Association will award a complete baby bed assembly.

Mayor L. O. Tate's address followed. He said, "This wonderful occasion which brings us together today fills a long established need for the people of our area."

Besides the modern style of the building itself, the hospital also has the latest type of equipment which is essential for the best treatment of patients.

Byers Services Slated Monday; Died On Friday

Mrs. Gladys Mae Byers, 50, of 302 Filhoil Ave., died Friday afternoon in a local hospital after an illness of several months.

A resident in and around Monroe for the past 20 years, Mrs. Byers was a native of Luen, Miss.

Funeral services have been set tentatively for sometime Monday in the chapel of Peters Funeral Home. Interment will be in the New Forest Cemetery at Forest.

Survivors include the husband, R. H. "Bob" Byers; two sons, A-2 William D. Adams, with the U.S. Air Force at Alexandria, and Frelson Adams, Harve De Grace, Md.; four brothers, Felton Hankins, Sildell, Merton Hankins, Madison, Miss., and Charles and Fletcher Hankins, both of Oak Grove; and four grandchildren.

Any item which costs $1000 or more must be advertised for, to allow bidding by competing firms.

Jury President M. W. Montgomery said the company selling the piece of road equipment had cut down the price.

The loader is a scoop which fastens onto a tractor. It will be used for loading items into trucks — such as gravel or dirt.

Jurors L. B. Pettit, W. O. Roberts, L. U. Fourmy, A. E. Montgomery, Leslie Hamm, Irvin Kilpatrick, Rankin Earle and Montgomery attended the session, at which they also purchased seven sewing machines for the West Monroe agriculture building.

Dr. George L. Sixbey, chairman of the department of languages, and Dr. Edwin L. Stockton, assistant professor, will appear on a panel about the personal essay. Dr. Stockton will also appear on another panel about the short story.

Dr. Willa Claire Cox, professor, will be a panel member in a session about modern poetry.

The members of the English faculty at Northeast State will attend the annual meeting of the Louisiana College Writers Conference in Lake Charles on Saturday.

Northeast Track Meet Set Tonight

TIFFEN STONE, Northeast's ace weight man, should receive strong competition from Southwestern's Larry De La Bretonne in tonight's triangular track meet in Brown Stadium. Stone beat De La Bretonne in the discus and finished behind him in the shot in the Shreveport Relays.

ARKANSAS STATE TEACHERS' answer to the Styrton twins are the Owen brothers, Don (left) and Wilbur. Both are scheduled to run the 100 and 220 and on the 440 and 880 relay teams here Saturday night and Wilbur will also compete in the low hurdles.

Tribe Picked To Win First Home Events

Northeast State hosts Southwestern and Arkansas State Teachers in Brown Stadium tonight with the mile, discus, shot and high jump expected to be feature events.

The meet will get started with field events at 7 p.m. Admission for the meet is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Coach Bob Groselose's Northeast Indians are undefeated after two meets, the Southwestern Recreation and Shreveport Relays, and are heavily favored to win tonight's affair, the first of two home meets for Tribe trackmen.

Though Southwestern, beeping up on the sport under Joe May, and Arkansas State Teachers, defending champion of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, are not expected to upset Northeast in the team standings, both have outstanding individual performers.

Southwestern's top ace is distance man Malcolm Robinson and high jumper Larry Simon, the basketball star, Robinson and Northeast's Buddy Eiland are expected to wage a torrid duel in the mile. Considered two of the top collegiate milers in the South, Eiland and Robinson have met three times this season with the Indian ace holding a 2-1 advantage.

Simon ranks as one of the leading high jumpers in the South and has cleared 6-6 this season. He should have an opponent worthy of his metal tonight in AST's Ronnie Hern, who has cleared 6-5.

Northeast's Tiffen Stone and Southwestern's Larry De La Bretonne waged close battles in the shot and discus in the Shreveport Relays and are expected to do the same tonight, with AST's Buddy Voegelie to vie with them in both events and Tim Kirby in the shot and Don Ketchside in the discus.

Stone finished second in the discus at Shreveport with De La Bretonne coming in fourth. The Southwestern weight man beat Stone in the shot, coming in second and the Northeast athlete third.

Northeast's amazing Styrton twins are expected to provide most of the fireworks in the shorter dashes and hurdles, although Don Styrton may be held out of one or both of the hurdles because of a leg injury suffered last week.

However, he is scheduled to run on the 440 and mile relays teams as usual.

Brother Dave, with a 9.4 to his credit, is easily the top entry in the 100 and is favored in the 200 also. He'll also run on the 440 and mile relay teams.

Southwestern is considered weak in the sprints but Arkansas State Teachers has a brother act of its own which compares with the Styrton twins combo for versatility.

Brothers Wilbur and Don Owen are to top point-getters on the AST team. Wilbur, a sophomore, runs the 100, 220, low hurdles and on the 400 and 880 relay teams.

Don has run the 100 in 9.8 and Wilbur in 9.9.

Northeast is strong in the sprints and placed four runners in the top five in the Shreveport Relays. Dave Styrton was first with 9.7, Jay Goldsmith second, Charles McDonald fourth and Woody Pence fifth.

Even if Don Styrton does not compete in the events, Northeast will still have strong entries in the hurdles. Owen Owen finished second in the lows at Shreveport and Eugene Franklin fourth in both the lows and highs.

Northeast's Randall Walker and John Baker, 1-2 in both the Southwestern Rec and Shreveport Relays, will run the 440 with Lionel Bork considered the top Southwestern entry and Gerald Cound the top AST quarter-miler.

Eiland, Gulf States Conference holder in the event, is the 880 favorite. Jim Collins of Southwestern and Jewell Steinbeck and Larry Frost of AST are expected to provide Eiland with his main competition.

Robinson is the outstanding two-mile entry. He won the event at the Southwestern Recreation Meet and the Shreveport Relays, turning in a 9:29.7 time at Shreveport. Teammate Paul Fuselier, two Northeast veterans, Jack Williams and Bill Frye, and AST's James McDermott are other strong entries.

All three of Northeast's relay teams are undefeated this season. The Styrtons, Goldsmith and McDonald run the 440; Goldsmith, McDonald, Pence and Walker the 880 and the Styrtons, Walker and Baker the mile.

Northeast's Noel Orr, who tied for second at Shreveport, and Tommy Edmonson, first in the Southwestern Recreation affair, are considered the top pole vaulters. Southwestern is not expected to enter a vaulter while Tommy Pace and Bob Corn should handle AST's duties. Edmonson has gone 13-11 this year and Orr went 13-6 last spring.

Edmonson and Owen Owen finished 2-3 in the broad jump at Shreveport. AST's Dale Kent and Robert Taunton could provide stiff competition.

NEVILLE INTRA-SQUAD TILT

Gold Rally Knots Black Club, 19-19

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Fullback Don Johnson scored from four yards out with 15 seconds left to climax a 65-yard desperation drive and give the Gold team a 19-19 tie with the Black after a spirited comeback effort in the annual Neville intra-squad football game here yesterday afternoon.

Down three touchdowns midway through the second period, the Gold Club caught up on one center Tom Spark's 50-yard return after a pass interception just before the half, then uncorked two long TD drives in the fourth period for the tie.

The first was for 64 yards on 11 plays was capped by quarterback Ronnie Clark's fourth down pass to halfback Jim Gilley for the final 25 yards.

Jimmy Howard tied the extra point to make it 19-13, with the Black team still in front.

This set the stage for the Gold team's final 16-play clutch drive in the fading minutes that ended with Johnson barreling over left guard for the tie.

Howard had a chance to win it then with his extra-point try, but the Black line broke through to block the kick.

With practically no time left, the Black club went to the air and almost broke the deadlock.

On the first play after the kick, at the Black 36, quarterback Don Saget lofted a tremendous heave to end Gary Hart.

The play was good for 54 yards, down to the Gold 10.

But a pass intended for Hart in the end zone was too long and on the last play of the game Saget, finding no receivers in the open, ran and was brought down on the seven.

The Black club scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, the first coming on a 61-yard drive with halfback Kurt Guelzow, who played a whale of a game on both offense and defense, crashing over for the last yard.

Don Osborn's extra point kick made it 7-0.

On the following kickoff, center James Willis recovered the ball at the Gold 35 after a Gold back booted the ball in trying to field the kick.

Four plays later Guelzow went across from the four, but this time the PAT kick was off.

A 44-yard drive in the last Black quarter ended in the last Black touchdown. Saget engineered the four-play drive and annexed the touchdown with a four-yard run around right end. Again the extra point attempt failed.

In addition to good running by Howard and Guelzow, Neville got fine offensive performances from Garry Pappas and Saget of the Black team and Gilley and Johnson of the Gold.

Gold teamers Richard Slavent and Andy Mapp did notable work in the line as did Richard Wilkerson and Guelzow for the Black.

Breaks set up all three Black team scores in the first half. The first came when Pappas recovered the ball.

Pat Arceneaux has cleared 200 feet consistently this spring and rules the favorite. AST is not expected to enter a spear tosser while Gene Harbert of Northeast, fifth in the Shreveport Relays, is expected to give Arceneaux his top competition.

High school relay teams will take part in special events. Teams from Tallulah, West Monroe, Ouachita, Neville and possibly Crossett, Ark., will run the 440, 880 and mile relay. Pineville had been scheduled to compete but will be unable to make it, according to Groselose.

The meet's referee will be Jerry Sugar, who'll also serve as head field judge.

Other officials are: Starters — Bob Ellen, Jim Hodgins, Course Clerk — Van Leigh, Scorer — Dan Jenkins, Announcer — Lew Fant, Field Marshals — Hoyt Moncrief, Leon Manley, Inspectors — George Sanders, Virgil Nix, Darrell Selvey.

Canines Play

Oklahoma 9 On Saturday

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech, after suffering a 1-0 loss to Delta State early in the week, resumes baseball action here Saturday afternoon in a twinnish with Oklahoma Baptist University.

The Bulldogs, defending Gulf States Conference champions, depended on good pitching and an excellent defense last year. After four games, it appears Berry Hinton, Tech coach, will have to depend on the same again this campaign.

Tech hurlers have given up only four runs in four games, but Bulldog batsmen haven't done much damage either, despite the 3-1 record for the young season.

Hinton will send Charlie Fuller, George Woodson, and Newell Blume against the Oklahoma Saturday. Star southpaw Sonny Parker has the cold miseries and will be held in readiness for the loop opener against McNeese here March 31.

Richard Bell and Kelton Bacon will share catching duties. Dave Hruska is getting a long look from Hinton at third base. George Garrett and Paul Labenne will form the second — short combination and Max Lewis is entrenched at first base.

Jim Opel will start in left field, Ron McNabb in center and Wendell Lorio and Roscoe Holcomb will alternate in right field.

Hinton used eight hurlers in the first four games and all turned in good performances. If they continue their good work, that should put the Bulldogs in good shape for the Saturday — Monday doubleheader diet of GSC games.

All league tilts are twinnish and all are played on Mondays and Saturdays.

Detroit manager Bob Scheffing believes the Tigers have the best pitching staff in the American League in starters Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Don Mossi.

They are backed up by Ron Kline, Phil Regan and Paul Foye. Don Cardwell of the Chicago Cubs was "runnerup" with 10 hit batsmen.

From here the Gold squad ground down to the Black 19 where Hart and Paul Eason swarmed through to dump Head back to the 25.

It was then that Head hit Gilly for the one that went all the way. Gilly took the ball at the 18 and squirmed through a number of defenders to score.

The last Gold scoring drive began with about five minutes remaining and was sparked by short power bursts by Johnson, Gilley and Jimmy Howard.

Howard, in fact, may have turned in the key play. With fourth down and two to the Black 32 he raced around left end, was hit head-on near the 31, but blasted his way down to the 28 with a hard, driving effort.

The game, witnessed by around 200 Neville students and supporters was played in mild sunny weather on the practice field behind Tiger stadium. Neville's regular field is undergoing spring repairs.

JUST A BUSH LEAGUER

Hornsby Still Hot With 'Rude Rog'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — "He couldn't carry my bat."

With those stinging words, Rogers Hornsby, Hall of Fame hitter, turned up the heat Friday on a newly-spawned feud with Roger Maris, the 61-homer hitter of the New York Yankees.

Hornsby, now a coach with the New York Mets, called Maris a "little punk ball player," a "swelled up guy" and a "bush leaguer"—the latter perhaps the sharpest of the printable things one major leaguer can call another.

It was the latest incident in a turbulent spring for Maris—known as "Rude Roger"—to at least one New York newspaper—that has included a running fight with the press, and a report he signed autographs with an "X."

The Hornsby-Maris spat started Thursday at an exhibition game between the Mets and the Yankees. A photographer asked Hornsby, one of the game's greatest hitters, to grab a bat and pose for a picture with Maris, who hit more home runs last year than any other man in a season.

Hornsby obliged, but Maris turned his back on the Mets coach.

"I've posed with some real major leaguers, not bush leaguers like he is," Hornsby exploded.

The Rajah still was fuming many hours after the incident. He said that Maris muttered something when he turned his back on him.

"Something about, 'That guy has been knocking me in the papers,'" Hornsby said. "I know what he meant. Last season I told a writer that there was only one thing Maris could do better than the Babe—that was, run."

"I also said that Mickey Mantle has all types of ability Maris doesn't have. I said I'd like to see Mantle lead in home runs. He hits over .300 and is a much better all-around player."

Maris hit only .269 last season while blasting 61 homers, and has a lifetime mark of .261. Hornsby's lifetime mark was .358, and he topped .400 three times, reaching .424 in 1924.

"I'll give Maris credit for hitting .61," Hornsby said. "That's a tremendous feat. But he has the advantage of playing in Yankee Stadium. The stadium has a short right field and Maris is a right field hitter."

"The fellow's behavior off the field is unforgivable," Hornsby added. "I just can't imagine anyone refusing to sign autographs."

Hico; Downsview In Finals Tonight

CHOUDRANT (Special)—Hico Hawks will be pitted against Downsview here tonight for the deciding game of the Choudrant Independent Basketball Tournament.

The Hico Hawks won over F&N Wells here Friday night 47-45 to move into the finals. Hawks' high man for the game was Doug Duke with 16 points.

In the second game of the semifinals Friday, Downsview defeated Foremost of Ruston 99-55, to earn a crack at the championship.

Tonight's action will see Foremost and F. & N. Wells battle for third place at 7 p.m. and the championship game at 8:15.

Dubach Crushes Choudrant 20-1 For 6-0 Record

CHOUDRANT (Special)—The Dubach Hornets crushed Choudrant High School 20-1 here Friday increasing their record to six wins and no losses.

The game gave, William Green, the winning pitcher a 3-0 record.

Green pitched for four innings, struck out seven, gave up no walks and only two hits.

Hornets John Jeffcoat and Richard Barnett pitched relief.

Dubach scored in every inning except the top of the seventh. Their heaviest scoring effort came in the sixth when the Hornets drove nine runs across the plate.

Dickey Lewis got four hits for five tries, including two doubles. Other Hornets hitters include Ricky McLeile, two for five; Merwin Bagwell two for two and William Green two for three.

TEAMS WITH EVERYTHING

St. John's, Dayton Vie For NIT Title

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—St. John's and Dayton, two teams that have everything and proved it the hard way, tangle Saturday afternoon for the title in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Crossett Takes 1st Spot, Rebels Second In Meet

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—Crossett High School with 75 points came in first in their own track meet here Friday 15 points ahead of West Monroe, their closest competitor.

West Monroe scored a total of 60 points while Eudora, Ark., placed third with 36 points; Magnolia, Ark., fourth with 22 points and Hamburg, Ark., last with 8 points.

The meet was divided into varsity and freshman competition. Crossett again topped honors in the freshman division with 69 points. West Monroe followed in second place with 54 points. Magnolia placed third with 18. Eudora fourth with 15 and Hamburg failed to score in freshman action.

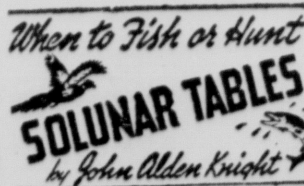

West Monroe took first places in four of the five field events with Crossett taking six of the ten running events.

Rebel pole vaulter Paul Hobgood broke his own record of 12-10, for a West Monroe athlete, and tied the best Crossett vault of 13-4.

Summary: 440 relay: Crossett (Stone, Bailey, Alexander and Switzer), 44.0. 880 relay: Crossett (Elkins, Switzer, Stone and Bailey), 1:32.5. Mile relay: Crossett (Stone, Etheridge, Culbreath and Alexander), 10:0. Charlie Van Zile, West Monroe, 10:0, bettered his record of 10:1.

Indians Finally Win

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Donovan pitched seven innings of one-run ball Friday as Cleveland broke a six-game losing streak by beating the Los Angeles Angels 4-1.

Donovan didn't walk a batter and gave up six hits. Ron Taylor finished up with two hitless innings.

Jerry Kindall paced the Tribe attack against Jack Spring and Ryne Duren with two doubles and a single, knocking in three runs.

Kindall sprained his knee on a slide into third base while trying to stretch his second double. He is expected to be sidelined a few days.

Cleveland (C) 010 000-4 2 0
Spring, Duren (5) and Rodgers (6) for Taylor (8) and Romano, W. Donovan, L. Spring.

Giants Clip Cubs

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran Stu Miller retired rookie Moe Norhardt on a high fly with the bases full and two outs in the ninth inning Friday to preserve a 3-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants over the Chicago Cubs.

The triumph, the Giants' first over the Cubs this season, enabled San Francisco to balance its Cactus League record at 7-7. The loss was Chicago's sixth in 13 games.

Mike McCormick had bested Jackie Curtis in an all-southpaw pitching duel before Miller snuffed out the Chicago threat in the 9th.

Willie Mays' double and Orlando Cepeda's single gave the Giants a run in the first. San Francisco got its second run in the fourth, when Felipe Alou doubled and scored on Manuel Mota's single. San Francisco picked up what proved to be its winning run in the eighth after Tony Balamo, a right-hander, replaced Curtis.

Balamo, on San Antonio's Texas League roster, walked Dick Phillips with one out in the eighth.

A wild pitch and rookie Charles Peterson's double scored Phillips.

Colts Beat Red Sox

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Fidge Browne hit a three-run homer in the 10th and brought the Houston Colt 45's an 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox Friday.

The Colts, whipping the Sox for the third time in as many exhibitions, counted five runs against veteran left-hander Chet Nichols in their last two innings.

Nichols was greeted by a home run by John Weekly. Then a walk and singles by pinch hitter Joe Amalfitano and Von McDaniel tied the score before Jim Pendleton lined into a double play with the bases filled.

Nichols walked two Colts before Browne, a 30-year-old rookie who has spent 10 seasons in the minors, homered.

Senators Rained Out

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The first rainout in the two years that the Washington Senators have trained here set back the pitching rotation Friday and will delay Manager Mickey Vernon's decision on the opening game pitcher against Detroit April 9 in Washington.

Bennie Daniels and Joe McClain are the two top candidates for the opening game assignment. Daniels was supposed to pitch six innings Saturday for the first time this spring, but because of the rained out game with Kansas City, Pete Burnside will be called upon to pitch Saturday.

Daniels will not pitch until Sunday. McClain has had a six-inning turn.

Cardinals Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Stan Musial's double capped a four-run first inning by which the St. Louis Cardinals won their sixth straight game Friday, a 4-3 conquest of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Redbirds in improving their Grapefruit League mark to 9-4, jumped on rookie right-hander Jack Hamilton at the outset.

Curt Flood singled, Julian Javier was safe on Don Demeter's error and Bill White tripled for two runs. Ken Boyer walked and Musial then hit the two-base blow that drove in the run necessary for victory.

The Phillies, shut out by Ernie Broglio for four innings, scored three times in the fifth on a walk, singles by Clay Dalrymple and Phil Marano.

Braves Beat Yanks

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves pushed across a 10th inning run on a New York throwing error and edged the Yankees 3-2 Friday in snapping a four-game exhibition losing streak.

Billy Gardner's wild relay to first in an attempt to complete an inning-ending double play enabled Phil Roof to come around from second with the decisive run. Roof had walked and advanced on a single by pitcher Cecil Butler.

Carl Willey, the Braves' hard-left-right-hander, hurled near-perfect ball in blanking the Yankees for seven innings. Willey surrendered a single to leadoff man Bobby Richardson in the first and then retired 20 straight batters before Johnny Blanchard's misjudged fly fell for a double with two out in the seventh. Blanchard was left stranded.

Twins Win, 6-1

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Southpaw Jack Kralick became the first Minnesota pitcher to go as far as seven innings Friday as the Twins hopped on the Chicago White Sox for a 6-1 exhibition baseball victory.

Kralick yielded seven hits and was followed by Ray Moore who held the Chicagoans scoreless the rest of the way.

The Twins had two big scoring innings, both at the expense of rookie right-hander Joel Horne. They scored three runs on four hits, including doubles by Zorro Versalles and George Banks in the first, and pushed across three more in the fourth, which was featured by Bob Allison's two-run single.

Bastrop Wins At Meet; WM, Lions, Beaten

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — Bastrop's battling Rams took an exciting ten inning, 1-0, victory over Central High here yesterday afternoon to remain unbeaten going into the final round of action today in the Murrah High School Invitational baseball tournament.

Murrah is also undefeated after two tilts.

Ouachita and West Monroe, Louisiana's other two entries, suffered defeat in both outings yesterday.

Today's Schedule:
10:30 a.m. Ouchita at Province, West Monroe; Central at Bastrop; Murrah at Province.
1:30 p.m. Bastrop at Province; Murrah at Province; West Monroe at Province.
4:00 p.m. Province at Murrah; West Monroe at Province; Central at Bastrop.

Bastrop took both victories yesterday by starting rallies with two men out and no one on base.

In their opening game against Province, the Rams scored all four of their runs in the fifth inning on a comedy of errors by the Jackson team. Larry Brown, Bastrop's hurler, and Ricky Head collected the only two hits in the victory march.

In the victory over Central, Bastrop's ace pitcher Floyd Murray locked horns with Johnny Shoemaker in a tight duel before the Rams finally plated one run in the tenth.

Murray helped his own cause by reaching first safely when a wide sweeping curve, which he swung at, eluded the catcher Ed Worley walked and David Whitworth slapped a 3-2 pitch between shortstop and third and Murray scored easily.

Ouachita's two losses, one to Central 6-0, and the other to Murrah 11-0, put a sudden halt to the Lions' six game winning streak.

Failure to hit was Ouachita's principal weakness. The Lions could manage only a single hit in each contest.

L. E. Traxler took the first loss and Jamie Hudson was charged with the second. Dennis Warner and Roy Walton were the only Lions to hit safely.

West Monroe banded out four hits, including Bill Duncan's homer, and scored three runs in the first inning against Murrah, but couldn't muster a single hit the rest of the game and went down 12-3 to the tourney's host team.

Roger Bell, Fred Newton and James Morgan were the other three Rebels collecting hits in the opening frame.

Raymond Harbor took the loss for the Rebs.

Province tagged pitcher Robert Dowdy for three runs on four hits in the second inning to provide enough for victory. The final score was 4-1.

Pitcher Junior Field yielded only two hits to the West Monroe nine while striking out 13.

Fred Newton's double in the third drove Roger Bell home with the West Monroe score and Richard Anderson slapped a liner against the third base bag for the only other Rebel hit.

Gymnastics Crown Won By Northeast

Gene Huffty and Bill Krieger won three championships each to lead Northeast Gymnastics Club to the team title in the Southern AAU novice division championships here Friday night.

Northeast, with a team composed mainly of Northeast State Gym and Twin City YMCA team members, scored 155 1/2 points to easily outdistance the other three teams entered. Pioneer Gymnastics Club was second with 27 1/2 points, the three-man University of Southwestern Louisiana team was third with 26 points and New Orleans YMCA scored two points.

Huffty was first in the free exercise and side horse events and was first in all-around competition, decided at the end of yesterday afternoon's preliminary competition in Northeast State's Brown Hall Gym.

Krieger took the championships in parallel bars, rope climb and still rings.

Northeast picked up another individual title when Marvin Jordan took first in the long horse event.

Other firsts were picked up by Dale Copes of Pioneer in tumbling, John Thibodeaux of Southwestern in horizontal bar and

Golf Tournament Scheduled April 1st In Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — A 27-hole, four ball tournament is scheduled to be held here Sunday, April 1st on the Tallulah Country Club golf course.

Approximately 30 teams have already entered. The number of entries will be limited to 48 teams or 96 players.

Three prizes will be awarded each flight of the three nine hole flights.

Those planning to enter may qualify here or on their own course, however all scores must be in the hands of Jimmy Green, club pro, before 6 p.m. March 31.

Defending champions, Roe Cagolatti and Lamar Lee Jr., defeated Bob Ewing and Jim Harper in the finals last year.

Thirty-four of the 98 regular season games in the National Football League were decided by seven points or less during the 1961 season.

Buckeyes, Bearcats Clash Tonight In NCAA Finals

By DON WEISS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Defending champion Cincinnati beat incredible UCLA 72-70 on Tom Thacker's shot with four seconds left and top-ranked Ohio State whipped Wake Forest 84-68 despite an injury suffered by three-time All-America Jerry Lucas Friday night in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

The Bearcats, if they can unjumble their nerves in time, and the Buckeyes will play in a rematch for the title Saturday night at 9 p.m., EST.

These two teams played in last year's championship with Cincinnati beating Ohio State, 70-68, in overtime while dethroning the 1960 champions and snapping the 32-game winning streak of Lucas and Company.

It will take something like that spectacular game to match the tension and thrills that the semifinals had for a roaring sellout crowd of 18,274 at Freedom Hall Friday night.

The Ohio State victory was a relatively simple one but Cincinnati—second ranked behind the Buckeyes in the final Associated Press poll—had the scare of its life after starting out as if it would demoralize UCLA before the game was half over.

While Lucas sat in the dressing room with an ice pack on a sprained left knee, suffered in a fall to the floor with little more than six minutes left in the Buckeye romp, the unsung Bruins of UCLA made up a 14-point deficit and battled the Bearcats right down to the final second.

Thacker, a 6-foot-2 junior who had been having an off-night, got his chance when an offensive foul was called on UCLA's Walt Hazzard with 1 minute and 34 seconds remaining.

The score was tied at 70, the 13th tie of the game, and Cincinnati stalled until there were 10 seconds remaining. The Bearcats called time out, had a conference with Coach Ed Jucker, and with everyone expecting 6-9 Paul Hogue to be given the shot.

Thacker took a pass from Tom Mary's, Md., winner of the NCAA college division championship at keyhole and let fly with a one-Evansville, Ind., last weekend, hand jump shot from about 15 feet, which was called "watched" "coach of the year" by the NABC.

Indians Finally Win

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Donovan pitched seven innings of one-run ball Friday as Cleveland broke a six-game losing streak by beating the Los Angeles Angels 4-1.

Donovan didn't walk a batter and gave up six hits. Ron Taylor finished up with two hitless innings.

Jerry Kindall paced the Tribe attack against Jack Spring and Ryne Duren with two doubles and a single, knocking in three runs.

Kindall sprained his knee on a slide into third base while trying to stretch his second double. He is expected to be sidelined a few days.

Giants Clip Cubs

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran Stu Miller retired rookie Moe Morhardt on a high fly with the bases full and two outs in the ninth inning Friday to preserve a 3-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants over the Chicago Cubs.

The triumph, the Giants' first over the Cubs this season, enabled San Francisco to balance its Cactus League record at 7-7. The loss was Chicago's sixth in 13 games.

Mike McCormick had bested Jackie Curtis in an all-southwest pitching duel before Miller snuffed out the Chicago threat in the 9th.

Willie Mays' double and Orlando Cepeda's single gave the Giants a run in the first. San Francisco got its second run in the fourth, when Felipe Alou doubled and scored on Manuel Mota's single. San Francisco picked up what proved to be its winning run in the eighth after Tony Balsamo, a right-hander, replaced Curtis.

Balsamo, on San Antonio's Texas League roster, walked Dick Phillips with one out in the eighth. A wild pitch and rookie Charles Peterson's double scored Phillips.

Colts Beat Red Sox

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Pidge Browne hit a three-run homer in the 10th and brought the Houston Colt .45's an 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox Friday.

The Colts, whipping the Sox for the third time in as many exhibitions, counted five runs against veteran left-hander Chet Nichols in their last two innings.

Nichols was greeted by a home run by John Weekly. Then a walk and singles by pinch hitter Joe Amalfitano and Von McDaniel tied the score before Jim Pendleton lined into a double play with the bases filled.

Nichols walked two Colts before Browne, a 30-year-old rookie who has spent 10 seasons in the minors, homered.

Senators Rained Out

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —The first rainout in the two years that the Washington Senators have trained here set back the pitching rotation Friday and will delay Manager Mickey Vernon's decision on the opening game pitcher against Detroit April 9 in Washington.

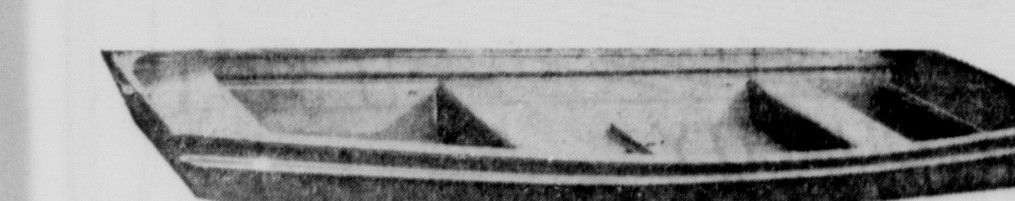

Bennie Daniels and Joe McClain are the two top candidates for the opening game assignment. Daniels was supposed to pitch six innings Saturday for the first time this spring, but because of the rained out game with Kansas City, Pete Burnside will be carried over, and Daniels will not try six until Sunday. McClain has had a six-inning turn.

HUFFTY, KRIEGER LEAD

Gymnastics Crown Won By Northeast

Gene Huffty and Bill Krieger won three championships each to lead Northeast Gymnastics Club to the team title in the Southern AAU novice division championships here Friday night.

Northeast, with a team composed mainly of Northeast State gym and Twin City YMCA team members, scored 155½ points to easily outdistance the other three teams entered. Pioneer Gymnastics Club was second with 27½ points, the three-man University of Southwestern Louisiana team was third with 26 points and New Orleans YMCA scored two points.

Huffty was first in the free exercise and side horse events and was first in all-around competition, decided at the end of yesterday afternoon's preliminary competition in Northeast State's Brown Hall Gym.

Krieger took his championships in parallel bars, rope climb and still rings.

Northeast picked up another individual title when Marvin Jordan took first in the long horse event.

Other firsts were picked up by Dale Copps of Pioneer in tumbling, John Thibodeaux of Southwestern in horizontal bar and Thibodeaux' winning score in horizontal bar was 6.9 with Huffty second with 6.45.

Copps had 7.4 points in tumbling to Richard Loyd's 6.9. Shutt got 6.9 points to win the trampoline with Stanley Lewis of Northeast second with 6.5.

Miss Suzuki Seki, former member of Japan's women's gymnastics Olympic team, gave exhibitions in three events during the finals.

The maximum score in all events except the long horse and rope climb was 10 points. The maximum in long horse was 9.5 while the rope climb was judged on time.

The summary:
Free Exercise—1. Gene Huffty, Northeast, 8.0. 2. Bill Krieger, Northeast, 7.0. 3. John Thibodeaux, USL, 6.95.

AFTER THRILLING SEMI-FINALS

Buckeyes, Bearcats Clash Tonight In NCAA Finals

By DON WEISS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Defending champion Cincinnati beat incredible UCLA 72-70 on Tom Thacker's shot with four seconds left and top-ranked Ohio State whipped Wake Forest 84-68 despite an injury suffered by three-time All-America Jerry Lucas Friday night in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

The Bearcats, if they can unjumble their nerves in time, and the Buckeyes will play in a rematch for the title Saturday night at 9 p.m., EST.

These two teams played in last year's championship with Cincinnati beating Ohio State, 70-65, in overtime while dethroning the 1960 champions and snapping the 32-game winning streak of Lucas and Company.

It will take something like that spectacular game to match the tension and thrills that the semifinals had for a roaring sellout crowd of 18,274 at Freedom Hall Friday night.

The Ohio State victory was a relatively simple one but Cincinnati—second ranked behind the Buckeyes in the final Associated Press poll—had the scare of its life after starting out as if it would demoralize UCLA before the game was half over.

While Lucas sat in the dressing room with an ice pack on a sprained left knee, suffered in a fall to the floor with little more than six minutes left in the Buckeye romp, the unsung Bruins of UCLA made up a 14-point deficit and battled the Bearcats right down to the final second.

Thacker, a 6-foot-2 junior who had been having an off-night, got his chance when an offensive foul was called on UCLA's Walt Hazzard with 1 minute and 34 seconds remaining.

The score was tied at 70, the 13th tie of the game, and Cincinnati stalled until there were 10 seconds remaining. The Bearcats called time out, had a conference with Coach Ed Jucker, and with 1959. Pete Newell of California everyone expecting 6-9 Paul Hogue to be given the shot.

Thacker took a pass from Tom Sizer, dribbled to the right of the keyhole and let fly with a one-hand jump shot from about 15 feet away.

UCLA, which had "watched" "coach of the year" by the NABC.

match for the title Saturday night

first 10 points and an 18-4 lead after five minutes of play before starting its unbelievable comeback, had one chance remaining.

Johnny Wooden's Bruins called time out with one second showing. But they weren't able to get off a shot when time resumed.

Thacker's game-winning basket represented his only points of the game and before that the lead was entirely on big Hogue, who came to life after he was called three times for foul trending.

With UCLA having built a 60-56 lead on the jump shooting of Burrhead Johnny Green and Gary Cunningham, Hogue went to work. There were eight minutes left. And in the next five minutes, the big Negro from Knoxville scored 14 points.

Dear Ann Landers: Frequently in your column you say "Alcoholics Anonymous can help you" — or "contact the National Committee on Alcoholism." This is wonderful advice, and I'm sure it has helped thousands, but what can a woman do about a husband who refuses to seek help?

I am married to a man who gets semi-paralyzed at least three nights a week. He has lost one good job after another because of his drinking. I could fill a book with stories about the shame and humiliation he has brought on his family. Yet he claims liquor is no problem to him, and that he can stop drinking anytime he wants to. What can I do for such a man? — BLACK DEUCE

Dear Black Deuce: Nothing is impossible to help people who don't want to be helped.

An alcoholic who goes A. A. must accept the program. One of the first steps a new member of A. A. must take is to admit that he cannot drink "like other people." He must admit that liquor is poison to him and that he cannot handle even one drop.

If a man (or a woman) alcoholic refuses to help himself he deserves to be told "Goodbye and good luck. Let me know when you are sober."

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old girl who will never be able to understand mothers. Maybe you can help. Several girl friends feel just as I do. We would like to know if it is our mothers who are at fault.

Mothers are always complaining because their daughters don't confide in them. They feel hurt when we take our troubles to "an outsider." They claim "they WANT to be close to us, but what happens when we try to confide? We are laughed at."

I was having trouble with my friend last week and decided to talk to my mother. I tried to explain the problem as best I could. She seemed very amused. Then in the middle of my story she began to laugh. She called me a silly kid and said I sounded like a nine-year-old. I was so crushed I began to cry and ran to my room.

I will never go to my mother for advice again. I wouldn't take a chance of getting my feelings hurt this way. Please print my letter in the paper, Ann. Maybe it will help other mothers understand why their daughters don't confide in them. — SHARON

Dear Sharon: I sympathize with you and agree that your mother muffed a good opportunity to provide moral support at a time when you needed it. But you may be overlooking another side to the story.

So please don't be too hard on Mother. It could be that she wasn't laughing AT you — she may have botched a valiant attempt to persuade you to laugh at yourself.

THE WEDDING TODAY of Miss Joan Magruder and John Copeland Pickard Jr. was preceded by a gay tea on Thursday afternoon in the Walker home on Chauvin. Awaiting the arrival of guests are Mrs. C. S. Foster, Miss Magruder, Mrs. Magruder, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. I. T. Landry, and seated, Mrs. O. C. Roddey.

Pickard-Magruder Wedding Today Preceded By Tea, Rehearsal Dinner

Among the concluding courtesies to Miss Joan Magruder, and Mr. John Copeland Pickard Jr., whose wedding will be solemnized at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church, was a rehearsal dinner last evening, and festive tea on Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Pickard, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner, given in the Lotus Club, at 7:30 p.m.

For the occasion Miss Magruder wore a tulle model in white embroidered, imported Irish linen, with a slightly flared skirt, a black velvet sash accented by a scarlet rose, and black Italian silk shoes.

Guests were seated at individual round tables, each centered with a spring arrangement of white, pink and blue flowers nestled in blue tulle. The wedding party was seated at a larger round table centered with a wedding bowl holding a larger arrangement of spring flowers in tulle.

Sharing the occasion with the honored couple were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McIlvanie, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham, Mr. Benjamin M. Pickard, Miss Sharon Connolly, Mr. Philip Eastman, Mr. C. David Barrett, Mr. Richard Gridler, Miss Jill Magruder, Mr. Don D. Magruder, Mrs. W. E. Walker, Mrs. Ray D. Magruder Sr., Mrs. J. H. Newton Jr., Miss Claudia Eubanks, Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Maxwell, Mr. Marcel Bloch, Mrs. J. Bridger Thornhill, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Magruder, Mrs. Addie Kelly, and the hosts.

TEA

The home of Mrs. George Thomas Walker at 221 Chauvin Avenue was the setting for a festive tea honoring Miss Magruder on Thursday afternoon, between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Walker were Mrs. Charles Shearer Foster, Mrs. Irwin Theodore Landry and Mrs. Otha Columbus Roddey.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. J. H. Thatcher Jr. and Mrs. J. B. Thornhill as they arrived, and received in turn by Miss Magruder, Mrs. Magruder, and the hosts.

Voice Of Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Paul Newman may co-star with Susan Strasberg in "Camille" next season if the Broadway production can come up with enough money. (Paul is accustomed to that hefty movie loot.) He's expressed interest in working with Franco Zeffirelli, the director . . . Supreme Court is the place to be these days. Adlai Stevenson's Girl Friday is sitting on a jury and stripper Sherry Britton is waiting to be chosen. When Ambassador Stevenson's secretary came up as a prospective juror in a case involving an "underprivileged" little girl who is suing the city because she was allegedly hurt while swinging in a public playground, she was asked if she would be prejudiced in favor of the plaintiff "because Mr. Stevenson is for the underdog," or words to that effect. She replied that she would judge the case on its merits, and she got the job.

Ann-Margaret, the young Scandinavian star, tells friends she really meant it when she broke her engagement to Burt Sugarman, a wealthy Los Angeles chap, but he's trying desperately to persuade her to change her mind, and refuses to take back the engagement ring . . . On the other hand, a multi-millionaire whose "betrotal" has been announced by the society columnists is fervently telephoning another beauty — not mentioned as his beloved — assuring her that he's not planning to change his bachelor status.

The New York drama critics are a quixotic group, and they have every right to disagree with each other (and me) as they do quite frequently, because that's what makes horse races and the freedom of the press. But it must be infuriating to a composer of the stature of Richard Rodgers to read reviews by fellows who obviously haven't listened to the music. As an example, some of the "experts" noted that the "No Strings" orchestra was composed of seven pieces (there were 20, duckies; you just didn't hear them) and some found a "double entendre" in the title because they didn't think there were any strings in the band any more than there were in the love affair.

Now just what do you call those 46 slender vertical objects that a harpist plucks — spaghetti? I call them strings. And what does the guitarist strum — noodles? I call those strings, too, and a guitar would be much without them; ask Segovia. There is a harp in the orchestra of "No Strings," believe me, boys, and there is a guitar; just because the musicians' names aren't listed in the program doesn't mean they aren't making sounds.

It must take an unusual amount of music to deprecate Richard Rodgers' music when you can't even identify the instrumentation. But then, some of those same critics thought the ghastly "13 Daughters" would be a hit, and said so. Even liked the music, which was terrifyingly banal. Oh, Juilliard, where art thou?

Can you believe this one? Principle Grace Kelly has a press agent who is calling up columnists telling them to "be sure and check" any items about Grace with the propaganda bureau before writing anything about Her Serene Highness' return to the unseemly land of Hollywood. Someone ought to tell the ballyhoos that good reporters don't wait for mimeographed releases, and when Grace forsakes her pumpkin coach for the sound stages she'll be just another movie star (only more so, because she's married to the Prince of Monaco) and there isn't a public relations man or woman who can censor what the press prints about her. In fact, it's pretty insulting — and bad public relations — to try to muzzle the newspaper.

Jayne Mansfield's moppet daughter, Jayne Marie, is up for an important assignment on a TV series . . . The Joey Bush, kins are expecting their fourth bambino . . . Wow! The Irish are writing to protest the "Dr. Kildare" TV show of March 15. I didn't see it, but a host of readers considered it insulting to the Irish, and "prejudiced." As one put it, "Revered Irish melodies were used to give emphasis to the Brendan Behan-ish character" of the program . . . The key to a recently front-paged mystery is depravity of a kind that would fascinate Tennessee Williams' dramatic instincts and might make a prize-winning play . . . The big news from England: Prince Charles has become a jigsaw puzzle addict.

Jim Garner is among those rooting for Fay Bainter to win the Academy Award as Best Supporting Actress for her role in "The Children's Hour." Says Jim: "I was so worked up over Fay's performance I actually shed tears." Van Johnson showed up all by himself at "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and seemed to have a marvelous time. Didn't look a bit lonely.

PREGNANCY AND EMOTIONAL IMMATURITY

A south bend reader has no problems of her own but writes: "Whenever my sister gets pregnant she craves chocolate cake and butterscotch nut sundaes. It makes her fat but she claims she can't help it and says pregnancy makes her nervous and hungry. Why is this?"

Women who worry when pregnant, probably are basically worried. They are emotionally immature and unable to face normal responsibilities in an adult way. Some fear for their survival, the baby's health, or whether they will be able to care for another youngster. Others are concerned with the financial burden of another child to feed, clothe, and educate. Still others worry about their figure and attractiveness and whether the husband's love will be affected.

All pregnant women have reason for concern but the vast majority realize and accept the challenge. Pregnancy is a normal process and there is no sense in resorting to self-pity or relying upon cake and ice cream for relief of tension. This is consolation eating and one of the reasons why women put on weight. It is different from the craving for starch, clay, or fruit that some develop.

This is the type of woman who gains more weight than is needed while carrying a baby. The combined weight of the fetus, placenta, fluid, and engorgement of certain tissues rarely exceeds 18 pounds. The woman who gains more than 30 pounds is headed for trouble. When she picks up 15 to 20 pounds with every pregnancy, she is bound to become obese.

The emotionally mature woman handles her pregnancies in a mature way. Her attitude toward food not only preserves her figure but lessens the danger of obstetrical complications and increases the chance of having a healthy and normal baby.

HARDWORKING STUDENTS

T. A. S. writes: After reading your article on the briefcase brigade I wondered if students could be included? It is not uncommon to see these youngsters board a bus at 7 a.m. and return home after 7 hours devoted to the school day. Then many start the grind of homework. Imagine 65 hours a week devoted to school work and this does not include the approximately 12 hours devoted to athletics or other school activities.

REPLY

Most students are young enough to take it. Dear labor leaders: Let's not start a 35 hour week for students.

ORAL IS LOWER

Mrs. B. writes: Isn't it unusual for a child to have the same temperature orally and rectally?

REPLY

Yes, but there is no disease in which this occurs. Perhaps the child swallowed or chewed on something hot before the thermometer was inserted into his mouth. As a rule, the rectal temperature is slightly higher.

Americanism Seminar Set At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — A Franklin Parish Americanism anti-Communism seminar will be held in the Winnsboro High school Tuesday.

The seminar is sponsored by the Franklin Parish Teachers Association and is for the parish high school students, teachers and the general public.

W. B. Strube, Jr., vice-president of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade of Houston, Texas, will direct the day's activities.

Shelby Jackson, state superintendent of education, will deliver the keynote address to seniors, juniors and tenth graders of the parish high schools to start the morning program.

The seminar director will then show a film "The Red Trap" and discuss "Heart, Mind, and Soul of Communism," "Communist Psychological Warfare," and "What Can Students Do to Help Achieve Victory."

Following lunch a teachers clinic will be conducted at which a film "Communist Blueprint for Conquest" will be shown.

The evening program will be for the general public and will start at 7:30 p.m. Strube will speak on "War or Peace with Communism" and will show a film "My Latvia" or "Make Mine Freedom."

Mrs. Hebert, 85, Succumbs; Services Today

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Lone Pine Baptist Church near Cheneyville for Mrs. Nancy A. Hebert, 85, who died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. She was the grandmother of Tommy Hebert, a sergeant with the West Monroe Police Department.

Mrs. Hebert was a native of Lone Pine and a member of the Good Hope Baptist Church. The body is lying in state at the funeral home at nearby Oakdale, though funeral arrangements were completed through Kilpatrick's of West Monroe.

Interment will be in the Lone Pine church cemetery.

Survivors include the husband, George F. Hebert; two sons, Fred Hebert, West Monroe, and Evelton Hebert, Sandusky, Mich.; a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Linzy, Baton Rouge; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Goodwyne Rites Remain Pending

Arrangements for funeral services are pending for Mrs. Henry Goodwyne, 71 year old Algiers resident and relative of several Monroe people. Mrs. Goodwyne died Thursday night after a brief illness in a New Orleans hospital.

Two Given Fines On DWI Charges In West Monroe

Two men — one local, the other out-of-state — drew fines of $300 or 90 days in jail Friday in West Monroe municipal court before Judge John McCormick for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. Court records identified them as Harvey Delk, 30, of Taylorsville, Miss., and 41-year-old Glen D. Creech, 208 Stewart St.

A six-month compulsory sentence was handed down against 19-year-old Negro Eugene Modicue, Route 3, box 123 1/2, West Monroe, for theft.

Five cases of reckless driving were processed as follows: Negroes Raymond Martin, 24 of Ruston, drawing $100 or 90 days, Morrow Walker, 26, 207 Lee St., $25 and costs, James E. Madison, 1117 Ridge Dr., $20, $25.50 bond forfeiture, and 62-year-old M. J. Secrease, 402 Dearn St., found not guilty; Billy Hearnberger, 28, 402 Wilson St., fined $25 or 10 days, and JESSIE E. Brown, 18, 412 Jackson St., $25 or 10 days, with the fine suspended on payment of court costs.

A charge against Brown of having an improper muffler was withdrawn.

Bobby Ray Sawyer, 21, of 210 Stewart St., forfeited bond of $20.50 for speeding, while $3 bonds for running stop signs were forfeited by Terry L. Martin, 17, 321 Marie St., and E. H. Hollingsworth, 25, of Route 3, box 264, West Monroe. Negro Whit Caldwell, 59, forfeited $5.50 bond for running a stop sign.

Running red lights resulted in $5.50 bond forfeitures by 47 year old Earl T. Brister, 410 Vernon St.; Victor L. Tolbird, 21, 322 Hose St.; Marshall Weaver, 26, Route 3, box 305, West Monroe; Dixie West Monroe, Negro Whit Caldwell, 59, forfeited $5.50 bond for running a stop sign.

Walters: Raymond P. Howard, 27, 1506 S. 3rd St., Monroe; and 33 year-old Claudy Roden of Greenville, Miss.

Pickard-Magruder Wedding Today Preceded By Tea, Rehearsal Dinner

Among the concluding courtesies to Miss Joan Magruder, and Mr. John Copeland Pickard Jr., whose wedding will be solemnized at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church, was a rehearsal dinner last evening, and festive tea on Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Pickard, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner, given in the Lotus Club, at 7:30 p.m.

For the occasion Miss Magruder wore a tulle-trimmed gown in white embroidered, imported Irish linen, with a slightly flared skirt, a black velvet sash accented by a scarlet rose, and black Italian silk shoes.

Guests were seated at individual round tables, each centered with a spring arrangement of white, pink and blue flowers nestled in blue tulle. The wedding party was seated at a larger round table centered with a wedding bowl holding a larger arrangement of spring flowers in tulle.

Sharing the occasion with the honored couple were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McVane, Dr. and Mrs.

W. H. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Bingham, Mr. Benjamin M. Pickard, Miss Sharon Connolly, Mr. Philip Eastman, Mr. C. David Barrett, Mr. Richard Gridler, Miss Jill Magruder, Mr. Don D. Magruder, Mrs. W. E. Walker, Mrs. J. H. Newton Jr., Miss Claudia Eubanks, Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Maxwell, Mr. Marcel Bloch, Mrs. J. Bridger Thornhill, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Magruder, Mrs. Addie Kelly, and the hosts.

The home of Mrs. George Thomas Walker at 221 Chauvin Avenue was the setting for a festive tea honoring Miss Magruder on Thursday afternoon, between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Walker were Mrs. Charles Shearer Foster, Mrs. Irwin Theodore Landry and Mrs. Otha Columbus Roddey.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. J. H. Thatcher Jr. and Mrs. J. B. Thornhill as they arrived, and received in turn by Miss Magruder, Mrs. Magruder, and the hostesses, before a massive arrangement of dogwood, white iris, and white daffodils in a silver urn. Throughout the reception room arrangements of pink azaleas, hyacinths, and lilies were seen at focal points, while the music room was bright with bronze urns filled with yellow iris and daffodils. Both the honoree and her mother were presented with corsages of white gladioli.

The tea table was centered with a pyramidal arrangement of white stock and white azaleas in a footed silver compote flanked by five-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. Mrs. A. O. Evans, Mrs. J. W. Gaines, Mrs. J. L. Malone, and Mrs. L. A. Shipman alternated in serving the guests.

Miss Magruder was wearing a gold silk sleeveless sheath with inverted pleats on each side. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. C. C. Boardman, Mrs. G. I. Hemphill, Mrs. M. B. Mapp, Mrs. W. H. McFadden, Mrs. S. E. Wilder, Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, and tea girls, Miss Sandra Brown, Miss Judy Engstrom, Miss Jill Magruder, and Miss Ellen Walker.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS

United Press International
The Confederacy's high tide of empire in the Southwest crested in the Sangre de Cristo mountains of northeast New Mexico, on March 28, 1862.

As at Gettysburg more than a year later, the tide fell back before Union arms and ebbed into defeat.

The Confederates came close to conquering New Mexico Territory (now the states of New Mexico and Arizona) — an empire about 400 miles wide and 600 long.

Its inhabitants were largely wild Indians who made no distinction between Unionist and Rebel when it came to taking scalps.

But the territory was reckoned by the Confederates as being rich in minerals. Beyond the territory lay California, known to be rich in gold.

North of New Mexico lay the Territory of Utah. Its Mormon inhabitants had little reason to love the Union. It was considered a candidate for Confederate expansion.

To the east of Utah lay the Territory of Colorado, already rich in gold and silver.

Here was an empire worth the taking.

The place to start obviously was El Paso, Tex. The Rio Grande turns in a northerly direction there and curls up to Albuquerque and close to Santa Fe, the capital. Forts dotted the river course. At strategic points other frontier posts guarded communications and lended off Indians. The forts were kept well stored with food, forage and ammunition. These supplies tempted the Confederates, too.

LT. Col. John R. Baylor started the invasion on July 23, 1861 with the 2nd Texas Mounted Rifles.

They rode up the Rio Grande about 40 miles from El Paso to Fort Fillmore, arriving the night of July 24, 1861. The plan was to capture the fort by surprise the next morning, but the garrison was warned in time by two Confederate pickets who had served river in the U.S. Army and had served under seeing comrades killed. The fort appeared too well defended to be stormed so Baylor went on to the town of Mesilla.

At one point a company of Texas Lancers of the 4th Regiment charged the 2nd Colorado Volunteers with lowered lances — the blades 3 inches wide and 12 long on the ends of 9-foot shafts. The Texans came on in three columns but were repulsed by heavy, accurate Federal fire. Only three of the Lancers came out un wounded.

The Federals beat back a charge on the night but 750 Texans overwhelmed the Union battalions on the left.

Canby then ordered his troops back across the river to the fort. He reported 68 killed, 160 wounded, 34 missing. Sibley counted his losses as 40 killed, 100 wounded.

While the battle of Valverde was counted as a Confederate victory, Sibley was short of supplies. Fort Craig was too strong to be taken. Sibley determined to bypass it, push north and capture supplies from the Federals.

His forces occupied Albuquerque on March 2, 1862 but most of the supplies had been sent to Santa Fe. On March 10, the Confederates reached Santa Fe but found most of the supplies had been sent away this time to Fort Union, 50 miles northeast.

At Santa Fe, Sibley proclaimed the territory as Confederate but the inhabitants received the Rebels coldly. He determined to take Fort Union.

After the battle of Valverde, Canby had appealed for Federal reinforcements. Colorado responded with the 1st Volunteers. They marched more than 400 miles in 13 days from Denver to Fort Union, much of it through snow.

They arrived March 10 and clashed first on March 26 with the Confederates at Apache Canyon, west of Glorieta Pass on the road to Santa Fe. The Confederates were driven back toward the capital.

On March 28, the Confederates returned to the fight. Col. John P. Slough, a Denver attorney commanding the Federals, split his forces. He sent Maj. John M. Chivington, a Methodist elder, with 430 men across the mountains to harass the Confederates from the rear. With the rest of his command, about 700 men, Slough started through Glorieta Pass and ran into about 1,100 Confederates commanded by Col. William R. Scurry.

The fight raged for six hours, much of it hand-to-hand. The casualties were heavy.

The going was too rough for cavalry so they fought dismounted or guarded the flanks. Artillery was dragged up and down hill with great labor.

Gradually the outnumbered Federals gave ground. As Colonel Slough gave the order to retire a flag of truce came from the Confederates — they wanted an armistice to bury the dead. The surprised Slough was glad enough to grant it.

Soon the explanation of the sudden truce came. Major Chivington's forces had captured and destroyed the Confederates' wagon train with all their supplies and ammunition.

That left the Confederates stranded in Glorieta Pass without food and supplies. They had won the battle and lost the war for New Mexico.

Slough reported his losses as 83 men killed, wounded and captured. Scurry said he lost 36 killed and 60 wounded. Both figures probably are low.

Hungry, thirsty and footsore, the Confederates retreated on the long road back to Texas.

Soon the explanation of the sudden truce came. Major Chivington's forces had captured and destroyed the Confederates' wagon train with all their supplies and ammunition.

That left the Confederates stranded in Glorieta Pass without food and supplies. They had won the battle and lost the war for New Mexico.

Maj. Isaac Lynde, Fillmore commandant, sent his men to attack at Mesilla but the skirmish was indecisive and the Federals retired to the fort.

Lynde seems to have panicked at this point and ordered the fort abandoned. Supplies which could not be carried were to be destroyed. Among the supplies which the soldiers disposed of in the traditional manner. What they couldn't drink they put into their canteens.

The command marched out of the fort at 1 a.m. July 27, 1861 and started for Fort Stanton, 150 miles northeast.

Soon after dawn in the hot sun, Union soldiers began falling out from thirst, induced perhaps by the whiskey.

Baylor caught up with Lynde at San Augustine Springs. Lynde made a feeble attempt to form what was left of his 700 men, failed and surrendered.

Flushed by his victory, Baylor proclaimed himself governor of the "Confederate Territory of Arizona" — all the territory south of the 24th parallel from Texas to California (about half of the present states of New Mexico and Arizona).

Early in 1862, Confederate Brig. Gen. Henry Hopkins Sibley led about 3,000 men up the Rio Grande against the Union forts. Col. Edward R. S. Canby opposed him with about 4,000 Federals concentrated at Fort Craig on the Rio Grande about 100 miles north of El Paso.

The Confederates reached Fort Craig on Feb. 16, 1862, decided it was too strong to assault, crossed the river and took a position at Valverde about six miles above the fort, hoping to lure Canby into a battle.

Canby accepted the challenge Feb. 21 when Sibley began to move his men to the Valverde of July 24, 1861. The plan was to capture the fort by surprise the next morning, but the garrison was warned in time by two Confederate pickets who had served river in the U.S. Army and had served under seeing comrades killed. The fort appeared too well defended to be stormed so Baylor went on to the town of Mesilla.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS

United Press International
The Confederacy's high tide of empire in the Southwest crested in Gloria Pass, a rocky defile in the Sangre de Cristo mountains of northeast New Mexico, on March 28, 1862.

As at Gettysburg more than a year later, the tide fell back before Union arms and ebbed into defeat.

The Confederates came close to conquering New Mexico Territory (now the states of New Mexico and Arizona) — an empire about 400 miles wide and 600 long. Its inhabitants were largely wild Indians who made no distinction between Unionist and Rebel when it came to taking scalps.

But the territory was reckoned by the Confederates as being rich in minerals. Beyond the territory lay California, known to be rich in gold.

North of New Mexico lay the Territory of Utah. Its Mormon inhabitants had little reason to love the Union. It was considered a candidate for Confederate expansion.

To the east of Utah lay the Territory of Colorado, already rich in gold and silver.

Here was an empire worth the taking.

The place to start obviously was El Paso, Tex. The Rio Grande turns in a northerly direction there and curls up to Albuquerque and close to Santa Fe, the capital. Forts dotted the river course. At strategic points other frontier posts guarded communications and fended off Indians. The forts were kept well stored with food, forage and ammunition. These supplies tempted the Confederates, too.

Lt. Col. John R. Baylor started the invasion on July 23, 1861 with the 2nd Texas Mounted Rifles.

They rode up the Rio Grande about 40 miles from El Paso to Fort Fillmore, arriving the night of July 24, 1861. The plan was to capture the fort by surprise the next morning but the garrison was warned in time by two Confederate pickets who had served in the U.S. Army and balked at seeing ex-comrades killed. The fort appeared too well defended to be stormed so Baylor went on to the town of Mesilla.

Maj. Isaac Lynde, Fillmore commandant, sent his men to attack at Mesilla but the skirmish was indecisive and the Federals retired to the fort.

Lynde seems to have panicked at this point and ordered the fort abandoned. Supplies which could not be carried were to be destroyed. Among the supplies was the hospital whisky which the soldiers disposed of in the traditional manner. What they couldn't drink they put into their canteens.

The command marched out of the fort at 1 a.m. July 27, 1861 and started for Fort Stanton, 150 miles northeast.

Soon after dawn in the hot sun, Union soldiers began falling out from thirst, induced perhaps by the whisky.

Baylor caught up with Lynde at San Augustine Springs. Lynde made a feeble attempt to form what was left of his 700 men, failed and surrendered.

Flushed by his victory, Baylor proclaimed himself governor of the "Confederate Territory of Arizona" — all the territory south of the 24th parallel from Texas to California (about half of the present states of New Mexico and Arizona).

Early in 1862, Confederate Brig. Gen. Henry Hopkins Sibley led about 3,000 men up the Rio Grande against the Union forts. Col. Edward R. S. Canby opposed him with about 4,000 Federals concentrated at Fort Craig on the Rio Grande about 100 miles north of El Paso.

The Confederates reached Fort Craig on Feb. 16, 1862, decided it was too strong to assault, crossed the river and took a position at Valverde about six miles above the fort, hoping to lure Canby into a battle.

Canby accepted the challenge Feb. 21 when Sibley began to move his men to the Valverde ford to cut off the supply route.

The Federal commander sent a detachment to hold the fort but the Confederates were there first.

The Union cavalry crossed the river under fire, dismounted, drove the Rebels from a cottonwood grove and brought up artillery. A pitched battle followed with heavy artillery and rifle fire.

At one point a company of Texas Lancers of the 4th Regiment charged the 2nd Colorado Volunteers with lowered lances — the blades 3 inches wide and 12 long on the ends of 9-foot shafts. The Texans came on in three columns but were repulsed by heavy, accurate Federal fire. Only three of the Lancers came out unscathed.

The Federals beat back a charge on the right but 750 Texans overwhelmed the Union batteries on the left.

Canby then ordered his troops back across the river to the fort. He reported 68 killed, 160 wounded, 34 missing. Sibley counted his losses as 40 killed, 100 wounded.

While the battle of Valverde was counted as a Confederate victory, Sibley was short of supplies. Fort Craig was too strong to be taken. Sibley determined to bypass it, push north and capture supplies from the Federals.

His forces occupied Albuquerque on March 2, 1862 but most of the supplies had been sent to Santa Fe. On March 10, the Confederates reached Santa Fe but again most of the supplies had been sent away, this time to Fort Union, 50 miles northeast.

At Santa Fe, Sibley proclaimed the territory as Confederate but the inhabitants received the Rebels coldly. He determined to take Fort Union.

After the battle of Valverde, Canby had appealed for Federal reinforcements. Colorado responded with the 1st Volunteers. They marched more than 400 miles in 13 days from Denver to Fort Union, much of it through snow.

They arrived March 10 and clashed first on March 26 with the Confederates at Apache Canyon, west of Gloria Pass on the road to Santa Fe. The Confederates were driven back toward the capital.

On March 28, the Confederates returned to the fight. Col. John P. Slough, a Denver attorney commanding the Federals, split his forces. He sent Maj. John M. Chivington, a Methodist elder, with 430 men across the mountains to harass the Confederates from the rear. With the rest of his command, about 700 men, Slough started through Gloria Pass and ran into about 1,100 Confederates commanded by Col. William R. Scurry.

The fight raged for six hours, much of it hand-to-hand. The casualties were heavy.

The going was too rough for cavalry so they fought dismounted or guarded the flanks. Artillery was dragged up and down hill with great labor.

Gradually the outnumbered Federals gave ground. As Colonel Slough gave the order to retire a flag of truce came from the Confederates — they wanted an armistice to bury the dead. The surprised Slough was glad enough to grant it.

Soon the explanation of the sudden turn came. Major Chivington's forces had captured and destroyed the Confederates' wagon train with all their supplies and ammunition.

That left the Confederates stranded in Gloria Pass without food and supplies. They had won the battle and lost the war for New Mexico.

Slough reported his losses as 83 men killed, wounded and captured. Scurry said he lost 36 killed and 60 wounded. Both figures probably are low.

Hungry, thirsty and footsore, the Confederates retreated on the long road back to Texas.
